Mission: To serve the community by fostering safety and high quality patient care in anaesthesia, perioperative medicine and pain medicine.

Vision: ANZCA will be a recognised world leader in training, education, research, and in setting standards for anaesthesia and pain medicine.

ANZCA Annual Report 2012
The year 2012 was a watershed for the College and Faculty, a time to reflect on the past and plan for the future.
Celebrating 20 years of our College

In 2012, ANZCA celebrated its 20th anniversary. Established in 1992 after 40 years as the Faculty of Anaesthetists, Royal Australasian College of Surgeons, the past two decades have seen us build on the legacy of our founders. The numerous contributions of Fellows, trainees and professional staff, over many years, are the core upon which our professions, our College and its Faculty of Pain Medicine (FPM) are founded. The College and FPM aim to support Fellows and trainees throughout their careers; to assist them in meeting regulatory body requirements and to advance the collegiality of our specialties.

The year 2012 was a watershed for the professions, our College and Faculty, a time to reflect on the past and plan for the future.

Closing out ANZCA strategic plan 2010 – 2012

This strategic triennium gave priority to Fellow engagement, quality and safety, support for Fellows who supervise trainees, increasing research support, raising the profiles of anaesthesia and pain medicine, addressing workforce issues, indigenous health, overseas aid, and constitutional review.

In 2011, we welcomed new chief executive officer, Linda Sorrell. We sadly farewelled a number of colleagues and witnessed trauma and bravery in our communities affected by natural disasters.

We celebrated with our new Fellows as they completed their training, and with those receiving College and Faculty awards and external honours.

Key achievements over this three-year period included:

• Improved understanding of Fellows’ needs through the fellowship survey (2010), the “road shows” by the New Zealand National Committee chair (2010-12) and our CEO (2012), and the La Trobe University study of Fellow engagement (2012).

In 2010, Fellows told us that services including the continuing professional development (CPD) program, ANZCA Library, professional documents, the annual scientific meeting (ASM) and publications (for example, Acute Pain Management: Scientific Evidence) were well used and highly valued.

While ANZCA was viewed as professional and reputable, it was also sometimes seen as bureaucratic and remote. Expanding and improving our services for Fellows and trainees (our future Fellows) has been a focus and will remain so in the years ahead. Above all, we will continue to seek Fellows’ and trainees’ views and respond to that feedback.

• An expanded trainee role in College affairs. The ANZCA Trainee Committee chair regularly attends ANZCA Council meetings (commenced 2010). There has been increasing trainee representation across the College (for example, on the Examinations Committee from 2012).

• Quality services for Fellows and trainees. These include:
  - The ANZCA Library with more electronic journals, e-books (introduced 2010) and assistance with searches.
  - The FANZCA logo (designed 2012) for business cards, letterhead, presentations and emails.
  - Outstanding ASMs – “How meets why”, Christchurch (2010); “Seeking the dragon pearl”, Hong Kong (2011, with the Hong Kong College of Anaesthesiologists); and “Evolution: grow, develop, thrive”, Perth (2012).
  - The ASM e-newsletter (introduced 2010) for those unable to attend.
  - Assistance with meeting mandatory CPD requirements through the release of CPD mobile (2012), ongoing improvements to the CPD program and standard, educational events and a growing library of podcasts for Fellows and trainees on key clinical topics.
  - Numerous educational events such as the New Fellows Conference, FPM Spring meeting, special interest group (SIG) meetings, workshops, lectures, problem-based learning discussions and quality assurance meetings, many in conjunction with our sister societies.
  - The Training E-Newsletter (introduced 2011).
  - Supervisor and teacher support such as the Foundation Teachers’ Course (launched 2010), more help for Fellows assisting trainees experiencing difficulty, checking the machine, local anaesthesia administered by other practitioners, anaesthesia handover, and anaesthesia machines.
  - A more robust professional document process, with widespread consultation and background papers explaining decision-making and evidence (from 2010).
  - External guideline endorsement including blood management, local anaesthetic toxicity, injectable medicines labelling and clinical handover.

• Supervising quality and safety in clinical practice. These include:
  - New and revised ANZCA professional documents on difficult airway equipment, regional anaesthesia, assisting trainees experiencing difficulty, checking the machine, local anaesthesia administered by other practitioners, anaesthesia handover, and anaesthesia machines.
  - A more robust professional document process, with widespread consultation and background papers explaining decision-making and evidence (from 2010).

• Triennial mortality reports.

• Web-based incident reporting: WebAIRS (launched 2010) under the Australian and New Zealand Tripartite Anaesthesia Data Committee (ANZTADC, www.anztadc.net), a collaborative project with the Australian Society of Anaesthetists and the New Zealand Society of Anaesthetists.

• The curriculum redesign project.

This involved input from many Fellows and trainees. Highlights included accreditation by the Australian Medical Council (AMC) and Medical Council of New Zealand (2012), introduction of the ANZCA Roles in Practice and ANZCA Clinical Fundamentals, explicit learning outcomes, workplace-based assessment (WBA) training supported by our WBA champions, the training portfolio system, and teaching and learning cases.

• Pain medicine initiatives such as the (Australian) National Pain Summit (2010); the online GP education project (launched 2012), collaboratively with the Royal Australian College of General Practitioners and supported by the BUPA Health Foundation; and constitutional review formalising the role of the FPM Dean as an ANZCA director and non-FANZCA FPM Fellows as College members. The relationship between ANZCA and the FPM remains strong and collaborative.

• The Asian Transition Working Group which was established in 2012 to oversee arrangements and consult with ANZCA trainees, supervisors and training departments in Hong Kong, Malaysia and Singapore.

• Growing support for research with funding increasing from $475,000 in 2010 to over $41 million in 2012 (page 28); revitalisation of the ANZCA Anaesthesia and Pain Medicine Foundation; an active ANZCA Trials Group and Fellows achieving overseas aid trainee involvement in overseas aid (started 2012); generous donations by Fellows and trainees to the Lifeline global citizenry project (ASAI 2012); and ongoing international scholarships to support anaesthetists from neighbouring countries.

In New Zealand, ANZCA has responded with an advocacy strategy, a dedicated policy project adviser, a workforce study (2012) and increasing formal submissions (to more than 20 in 2012).

In Australia, ANZCA has averaged more than 40 submissions each year on topics ranging from alternative prescribers to doctors’ health. Additionally, many Fellows and trainees represent ANZCA on external organisations and projects, and their contributions are greatly appreciated.

• The ANZCA Indigenous Health Committee (formed 2011) has produced indigenous health podcasts (see ANZCA website), and strategies to support indigenous doctors and medical students in Australia and New Zealand, through mentoring, collaboration and data collection.

• The ANZCA Overseas Aid Committee (established 2010) supports the Essential Pain Management Course (piloted 2010) and run in Papua New Guinea, the Pacific, Asia, Africa and Central America; a scholarship to foster trainee involvement in overseas aid (started 2012); generous donations by Fellows and trainees to the Lifeline global citizenry project (ASAI 2012); and ongoing international scholarships to support anaesthetists from neighbouring countries.

• Capturing our history and heritage for future generations through our history and heritage strategy (2011), the development of “Anaesthesia stories” (2012), ongoing support for the Geoffrey Kaye Museum of Anaesthetic History and related events.

What next? Strategic plans 2013-2017

In 2012, much effort was spent developing the ANZCA and FPM strategic plans for the next five years (pages 16-17).

A “grassroots up” approach sought feedback from Fellows, trainees, staff and external organisations to determine our priorities. New projects for 2013 and beyond will advance standards in anaesthesia and pain medicine, improve services for Fellows and trainees, ensure strong collaborations and advocacy, and strengthen our College and Faculty for the future.

There are many current issues – clinical leadership; workforce; health reform and innovation; health spending; maintenance of standards; services in regional, rural and remote settings; equity; increasing regulation; revalidation; sustainability; support for Fellows and trainees, and appropriate acknowledgement of their contributions.

The meaning and value of fellowship

There is enormous value in our fellowships. The post-nominals FANZCA and FPMANZCA indicate specialists of the highest standing. Fellows and trainees can be rightly proud of their College and Faculty. However, I take nothing for granted.

As in our clinical work, the College should preserve traditions and services that are effective, as well as move with the times and away from practices that are outdated. We must remain responsive and relevant in a changing environment.

Collegiality remains the strength of our organisation. Working together, we can embrace opportunities and be proactive in the way we collaborate with and influence others. Above all, we must ensure that messages about safe and high quality anaesthesia, perioperative care and pain medicine are heard, understood and acted upon.

I acknowledge all ANZCA and FPM Fellows, trainees and staff who have contributed to our evolution over the past 20 years. We can together look forward to an exciting, challenging and successful future.

“The numerous contributions of Fellows, trainees and professional staff, over many years, are the core upon which our professions, our College and its Faculty of Pain Medicine (FPM) are founded.”
The College created a new state-of-the-art training portfolio system, allowing trainees and their supervisors to record all aspects of training, including their clinical experiences, workplace-based assessments, clinical placement and core unit reviews, to provide details about courses attended and view details of examinations.

The Strategic Project Office, which was formed in August 2012, assumed responsibility for implementing the training portfolio system and successfully delivered the continuing professional development (CPD) mobile solution with the Fellowship Affairs unit. The CPD mobile allows Fellows to complete their CPD portfolio functions “on the go” using smartphones and tablets. The College plans to continue to advance the CPD experiences of Fellows in 2013.

Staff from across the College continued to support continuing medical education events in 2012, from the hugely successful 2012 Perth Annual Scientific Meeting (which attracted more than 1500 Fellows and trainees) and FPM Refresher Course Day, to successful special interest group meetings, the FPM Spring Meeting and events in the Australian regions and New Zealand.

The reaccreditation process of the College and FPM by the Australian Medical Council and the Medical Council of New Zealand was co-ordinated by the ANZCA Policy unit, which also facilitated some 50 submissions to government in Australia and New Zealand on behalf of ANZCA and FPM.

We have seen a period of great change and achievement at ANZCA in 2012, which is a credit to the many Fellows, trainees of ANZCA who have been strongly supported by College staff.

The final stages of the revised curriculum development occurred, ready for implementation in the 2013 hospital employment year.

This enormous project — the biggest yet undertaken by the College — involved thousands of hours’ work by hundreds of Fellows, trainees and approximately 60 per cent of the College’s staff. It has been closely watched by the Faculty of Pain Medicine (FPM), which continues to develop its revised curriculum for 2015.

College staff co-ordinated the development of key documentation to support the revised training program, including the curriculum itself, the handbook and the new regulation.

A comprehensive change management and communication strategy was also developed to provide education and orientation in relation to the program.

The Education Development Unit ran a series of workplace-based assessment workshops to inform our supervisors of training and other trainers about how workplace-based assessments work under the revised curriculum. The Education Development Unit also continued to develop and deliver e-learning resources for trainees and Fellows and progressed development of the Foundation Teacher Course (online pilot).

The promotion of anaesthesia and pain medicine continued to grow, largely thanks to the work of our Communications unit, which issued 45 media releases that resulted in nearly 1000 media reports about anaesthesia and pain medicine that reached an estimated cumulative audience of 18.6 million people in Australia and New Zealand.

In 2012 the Communications unit also developed the FANZCA logo, which is made up of the College coat of arms and the words “Fellow of the Australian and New Zealand College of Anaesthetists”. The logo is designed for use on stationery, allowing Fellows to more visibly display their FANZCA post-nominals.

Our online resources, including additions to the ANZCA Library and our podcasts and webinar collections, continue to grow. In 2012, FPM was involved in the successful launch of a GP Online Education Program on pain management, in collaboration with the Royal Australian College of General Practitioners. Three web-based oral histories, Anaesthesia Stories, were produced.

The College and FPM both have new strategic plans for 2013-2017. The development of these plans involved wide consultation with groups and individuals, within and outside the College.

The strategic plans have guided the development of business plans established by each unit within the College, which will see the College move forward in 2013.

The College created a new state-of-the-art training portfolio system, allowing trainees and their supervisors to record all aspects of training.”
Expanding and improving our services for Fellows and trainees (our future Fellows) has been a focus and will remain so in the years ahead.

The revised training program

The 2013 anaesthesia training program has been designed in line with recommendations from the curriculum review, which began in 2008. Throughout 2012, authorship workshops were held to finalise the program with thousands of hours of work by hundreds of Fellows, trainees and staff. This resulted in the publication of the curriculum, handbook and regulation, which outline all components of the training program.

The streams of work for delivery of the revised training program included:
- Curriculum, handbook and regulation development.
- Training portfolio system development.
- Transitioning of trainees to the revised training program.
- Change management and communication activities to prepare all stakeholders for the launch.

Revised curriculum

The Curriculum Redesign Steering Group and curriculum authoring groups developed the content of the curriculum, and teaching and learning cases, for effective delivery of the training program.

The teaching and learning cases were developed throughout the year as teaching resources integral to the revised curriculum. These evolving case scenarios are clinically based and are presented in a format to encourage discussion and reflection rather than didactic teaching.

They are available to trainees, consultants and supervisors. The teaching and learning outcomes were linked to the learning outcomes in the curriculum and demonstrate the way these outcomes underpin the knowledge, skills and attitudes necessary for clinical practice.

References and resources were identified for each case to assist the trainee and facilitator to address areas where their knowledge, experience or understanding may be insufficient or as an aide memoir.

Handbook and regulation

The TE-Document Development Group (TE-DDG) developed ANZCA’s Handbook for Training and Accreditation and the new Regulation 37: Training in Anaesthesia. Leading to FARANZCA, and Accreditation of Facilities for the Delivery of the Curriculum. The regulation outlines the rules relating to the training program for trainees, Fellows and accredited units. The TE-DDG comprehensively reviewed existing regulations and translated these to apply to the requirements of the revised curriculum. The TE-DDG also combined existing TE professional documents and developed new information to allow trainees, supervisors and tutors to understand how to implement the revised curriculum in practice.

New roles were developed and sections of the handbook outline the duties of Fellows involved in curriculum delivery as supervisors and assessors including:
- Education officers.
- Supervisors of training.
- Introductory training tutors.
- Clinical fundamental tutors.
- Specialised study unit supervisors.
- Scholar role tutors and supervisors.
- Workplace-based assessors.
- Rotational supervisors.
- Examiners.

Training portfolio system

Project groups ensured the requirements of the curriculum were translated into specifications for the development of ANZCA’s customised training portfolio system (TPS). The Curriculum Operations and Implementation Group, Curriculum Implementations and Planning Group and Curriculum Project Governance Group oversaw development of the TPS and all new College administration processes to manage training program delivery.

The TPS was developed for trainees and supervisors to record and track all components of training. It is the hub for training program data and is where trainees:
- Record their clinical experiences including volume of practice (cases, procedures, time), clinical placement plans and other movements.
- View workplace-based assessments.
- View clinical placement reviews and core unit reviews.
- Provide details about courses attended.
- View details of examinations.

Anaesthetists who supervise trainees and perform workplace-based assessments have access to the TPS for completing the assessments. Trainees, supervisors and workplace-based assessment assessors can access the system from devices including Apple and Windows desktop computers, laptops, Android tablet, Apple iPads and iPads, and numerous laptop devices. ANZCA contacted the IT departments of accredited training sites to ensure that technical restrictions did not prevent access for ANZCA trainees and Fellows.

Preparing for the launch

A comprehensive change management and communication strategy was delivered throughout the year to provide education and orientation for the launch of the training program. This included the development of online resources such as podcasts, the co-ordination of webinars and also face-to-face workshops. The change program paid significant attention to the new workplace-based assessment (WBA) tools of the revised curriculum. WBA champions and the education, training and development manager co-ordinated more than 77 workshops, overseen and guided by the Workplace-based Assessment Committee.

The inclusion of new WBA tools in the revised curriculum improves the teaching and assessing of important areas, such as skill acquisition and demonstration of professional attributes. In 2012, the WBA tools were finalised following comprehensive piloting in previous years. The assessments were blueprinted to the revised curriculum along with the primary exam and final exam learning outcomes. WBA tools improve the structure of in-and out-of-theatre teaching, critical thinking and reflection, and feedback in all areas. The tools are used in a clinical setting and aim to ensure that the trainee not only has required knowledge but also can demonstrate flexibility using that knowledge in their clinical performance.

This formalises the teaching that already occurs in ANZCA training and the workshops allow Fellows and provisional Fellows to become familiar with the tools. As the year progressed, many departments began using the tools in training to prepare for the launch.

Transitioning and supporting trainees

The second half of 2012 focused on developing criteria and processes for transitioning trainees to the revised curriculum. Each trainee’s transition status was subject to a preliminary assessment by the College and the trainees were advised of the outcome. By the end of 2012, trainees were made aware of their transition status and processes were defined to allow trainees to understand how partial completion of 2004 curriculum modules would be credited to the revised curriculum.

Launching the curriculum

Between October and December, the general manager, education development, the training portfolio system (TPS), project manager and TPS team visited local supervisor of training events to teach education officers and supervisors of training how to use the TPS and to learn more about the training program. The TPS and curriculum were launched in New Zealand in December and College staff provided close support to trainees and supervisors with scheduled teleconference events and through regular publication of launch e-newsletters and online TPS user guides and support resources.

Advancing pain medicine: Improving patient care

The results were worked up with ANZCA Council, the CEO and general managers into a set of strategic priorities and associated objectives. These form the basis for the ANZCA Strategic Plan 2013-2017. A similar process was undertaken for FPM, ensuring relevant stakeholders were involved, as well as ensuring alignment with the ANZCA plan.

The plan is intended to inform the work of ANZCA and FPM, respectively, and communicates the mission, vision and scope of work to external stakeholders in Australia and New Zealand. These include (but are not limited to) government agencies, hospitals, other colleges and societies, interest groups and the public.

It encapsulates why ANZCA/FPM exists, what it does, and its key areas of work for the next five years.

The review provided a great opportunity to engage with members and key stakeholders, to seek their views, and to develop a revised mission, vision and key strategic priorities. A careful analysis of the challenging external environment coupled with responses from major stakeholders provided the basis upon which the strategies were developed. The outcome is a modernised mission and a clear, achievable vision.

Major initiatives such as the implementation of the revised curriculum, the move from a provider to a collegial relationship with our Asian partners, and the spotlight on health workforce innovation, were among major challenges and opportunities that ANZCA and FPM considered during the strategy development. Beginning in late 2011, ANZCA staff reviewed the previous strategic plan then consulted extensively with internal and external stakeholders to gauge where ANZCA is positioned, and where it wants to be in five years. The consultation included all the major ANZCA committees, including the New Zealand National Committee and the Australian regions.

New strategic directions for both ANZCA and FPM

During 2012, the College and Faculty of Pain Medicine reviewed their strategic plans. The review provided a great opportunity to engage with members and key stakeholders, to seek their views, and to develop a revised mission, vision and key strategic priorities. A careful analysis of the challenging external environment coupled with responses from major stakeholders provided the basis upon which the strategies were developed. The outcome is a modernised mission and a clear, achievable vision.

Some things are unchanged: ANZCA’s core mission, the driver for everything we do, keeps us firmly focused on the provision of safe, high quality patient care for our community. Also unwavering is the dedication and expertise of all those who work to advance standards of training and practice. However, the economic, political and social landscape in which we deliver on our mission has changed, and will continue to do so.

The revised anaesthesia curriculum and associated training program, which starts in 2013, is a good example of how ANZCA stays true to its core purpose while leading innovation and improvement. Similarly, FPM’s work in this area will produce an updated curriculum for pain medicine for 2015.

ANZCA Annual Report 2012
Providing relevant, professional and accessible services to Fellows continues to be the focus of the Fellowship Affairs unit, which is guided by the Fellowship Affairs Committee. During 2012, there was substantial investment in IT infrastructure to deliver services through an ever-increasing number of digital channels.

The highly valued ANZCA Library continued to expand its online collection and accessibility and demand for an increasing number of continuing medical education events grew with more than 3000 Fellows and trainees attending ANZCA-run events in 2012.

Our continuing professional development (CPD) program was successfully accredited and we delivered CPD for smartphones. The College also commenced engagement with regulatory bodies around revalidation and recertification.

The Quality and Safety Committee and its sub-committees focused on setting the standards for anaesthesia practice in Australia and New Zealand and there was continued focus on our History and Heritage Strategy. During 2012, “Anaesthesia Stories”, a new series of short interviews with luminary Fellows commenced.

Highlights

The ANZCA CPD program was successfully accredited as part of the College’s overall reaccreditation process by the Australian Medical Council (AMC) and New Zealand Medical Council (NZMC).

The CPD unit and the CPD Committee continue to engage with the AMC and MCNZ to ensure we maintain our standard-setting CPD program. Fellows’ interests are being represented with the relevant Australian and New Zealand regulatory agencies as the discussions on clinical audit, revalidation and recertification continue to evolve.

In 2012, further work on the delivery channels of the CPD program was done based on Fellows feedback and user requirements. The CPD Committee acknowledged the development and subsequent delivery of CPD for smartphones. This capability allows Fellows to conveniently access their CPD portfolio and add activities on the go as well as track progress of their smartphone. It is a further evolution of the online CPD portfolio which can now be accessed across any device at anytime. Compliance with the program by Fellows was also achieved with a successful 2012 audit.

Knowledge resources

The ANZCA Library now has more than 200 e-books and new subscriptions including OVID Anesthesiology, Pain collection and the Lange Basic Science Collection. New online journal access was also expanded with the addition of MD Consult and the Anesthesiology collection.

Fellows and trainees have welcomed the additional resources with usage in 2012 at 130,000 downloads, more than three times the number in 2011. The number of books borrowed by Fellows and trainees also increased to more than 700 sent throughout Australia and New Zealand.

The Geoffrey Kaye Museum of Anaesthetic History enjoys an international reputation as one of the major anaesthesia collections in the world and many international historians admire and envy the role the museum has played in furthering professional and public knowledge of the history and practice of anaesthesia.

The honorary curator, honorary archivist and museum collections officer expanded our collaborative ties with other anaesthetic museums of note, in particular the Wood Library Museum. Items of historical significance were also donated to the Geoffrey Kaye Museum of Anaesthetic History including donations from the Asociacion de Anestesia, Analgesia y Reanimacion de Buenos Aires.

As part of the History and Heritage Strategy to preserve our history, the collections officer and the museum’s assistant honorary curator, Dr Christine Ball, captured three oral histories entitled “Anaesthesia Stories: People and events shaping a modern specialty”. Interviews with Professor Tess Crummond, AO, OBE; Dr Duncan Campbell and Dr Nerida Dikworth, AM, were launched and are available on the ANZCA website.

Quality and safety

ANZCA’s professional documents set the standard for anaesthesia practice in Australia and New Zealand.

Documents in development or review during 2012 include airways management, the expert witness, anaesthesia and echocardiography, infection control, pain and relief and end-of-life issues.

In 2012 ANZCA established the Anaesthetic Allergy Sub-Committee to produce guidelines and other resources for prevention and management of anaesthesia-related allergy. Participation on web-based anaesthesia incident reporting continues to increase with more than 40 hospitals now reporting through the tripartite ANZTADC website.

Events

Perth ASM 2012

More than 1500 Fellows and trainees attended the Perth Annual Scientific Meeting in May. The scientific program included 13 plenary sessions, 178 concurrent session presentations, 47 workshops, 42 small group discussions and quality assurance sessions, and 59 ePoster presentations, complemented by an excellent social program and other important events, such as the College Ceremony.

The chair of the Final Examination Sub-Committee is Dr Vida Viliunas.

Training accreditations

ANZCA accredits anaesthesia departments and accredited sites that comply with its requirements for recognition. Accredited departments and facilities must be in a rotational training scheme, including a rural rotation. A grouping of hospitals providing such a program of specialty and sub-specialty training constitutes a rotational training scheme. ANZCA accredits both public and private facilities.

In 2012, the Colleges visited 39 facilities; four of these were new accreditations, three were to accredit departments that had received Specialist Training Program funding and two were joint ANZCA-CICM sites. The College conducted 113 site visits, including IMGS who are assessed in Australia and New Zealand.

IMGS assessment pathway

IMGS who are assessed as substantial comparability (SC) are required to undertake up to 24 months of clinical practice assessment plus an examination to be eligible to apply for fellowship. All IMGS who are assessed as either partially comparable or substantial comparability also are required to provide evidence of having completed an Effective Management of Anaesthetic Crises (EMAC) or similar course and to show participation in a continuous professional development program.

Any IMGS categorised as not comparable (NC) would not be accepted into the IMGS assessment pathway.

In New Zealand, the New Zealand Medical Council sets the criteria for eligibility for vocational registration following consultation with the College. The College sets the requirements for eligibility to apply for fellowship of ANZCA.

Highlights

- A total of 109 international medical graduate specialist (IMGS) applications were undertaken in New Zealand.
- 34 workplace-based assessments were undertaken in Australia.
- 14 workplace-based assessments were undertaken in New Zealand.
- 65 international medical graduate specialists became Fellows.
- One international medical graduate specialist was elected to fellowship under regulation 6.3 Admission to Fellowship by election via application.
- In 2012, the College assessed 62 IMGS in Australia and New Zealand. In Australia, 34 workplace-based assessments were undertaken and 14 were undertaken in New Zealand. Sixty-five IMGS became Fellows, including one who was elected to fellowship under regulation 6.3.

Background

IMGS who are assessed as substantial comparability (SC) are required to undertake 12 months of clinical practice assessment (CPA) and a workplace-based assessment (WBA) to be eligible to apply for fellowship. An IMGS assessed as partially comparable (PC) is required to undertake up to 24 months of clinical practice assessment plus an examination to be eligible to apply for fellowship. All IMGS who are assessed as either partially comparable or substantial comparability are required to provide evidence of having completed an Effective Management of Anaesthetic Crises (EMAC) or similar course and to show participation in a continuous professional development program.

The IMGS came from countries including Brazil (1), Colombia (1), Egypt (5), France (1), Germany (4), India (16), Iran (9), Iraq (3), Ireland (5), Jamaica (1), Lebanon (1), Norway (1), Pakistan (4), Philippines (1), Russia (1), Saudia Arabia (1), Serbia (1), South Africa (6), Sri Lanka (1), Switzerland (2), UK (29), US (2) and Zimbabwe (1). (continued next page)
Of these applicants, nine have not yet agreed to attend an interview, 23 were determined to be partially comparable, five were determined to be partially comparable requiring and were exempted the written section of the exam, of which four required 12 months of clinical practice assessment and one required 18 months of clinical practice assessment, eight were determined to be partially comparable and not exempted the written section of the exam. Of those not exempted the written section of the exam one was required to complete 12 months of clinical practice assessment and six require a clinical practice assessment period of 24 months. Three applications were determined to be not comparable on the basis that the gap between their training and that required for FANZCA was too great for the IMG activity in New Zealand.

In New Zealand, the Medical Council of New Zealand (MCNZ) refers overseas trained specialist applications for vocational registration to the College for assessment. As part of that assessment for the MCNZ, the College also assesses the applicant for requirements he or she needs to meet for eligibility to apply for fellowship of ANZCA.

In 2012 the NZ National Committee on Areas of Need in Australia conducted 16 area of need (AON) assessments according to the College document Anaesthesia Services for Areas of Need in Australia. Of these, eight have commenced in positions and six have commenced in the international medical graduate specialist process.

Records management

During 2012, the Records Management unit played an integral part in preparing to implement the revised ANZCA curriculum. The key activities for records management around this have been:

- Involvement in the development and testing of the training portfolio system.
- Preparing the training records of trainees for transition to the training portfolio system.
- Involvement in the development of the ANZCA Handbook for Training and Accreditation.
- Developing new processes and forms to meet the requirements of regulation 37.

Records Management was separated from Training and Assessments for two years in order to focus on building a stable department to focus on the collection, review and maintenance of ANZCA’s trainee records and to answer trainee queries. The capability of the unit has increased substantially and Records Management was amalgamated back into the Training and Assessments unit as a discrete department in 2012.

ANZCA Trainee Committee

The ANZCA Trainee Committee was established in 2004. As a committee of the ANZCA Council it is responsible for considering and providing trainee input on all issues relating to training and education. The committee comprises the chairs of each of the regional trainee committees. From 2013, the ANZCA Trainee Committee will meet twice face-to-face in Melbourne and three times by teleconference.

The ANZCA Trainee Committee was very active in 2012, with a large turnover of membership at the beginning of the year. The workload included input into ANZCA Curriculum Revision 2013. This input included continuing to review the proposed learning outcomes and requirements for volume of practice, as well as suggestions regarding both the new training and accreditation handbook and the desirable features of training portfolio system, where trainees interact with the new curriculum on a daily and case-by-case basis.

The committee continued to provide input into ANZCA professional documents under routine review and, from 2013 onwards, will hold an additional face-to-face meeting. This aims to reduce the loss of corporate knowledge between successive committees.

Through the ANZCA Trainee Committee, trainees remain well represented on a large number of ANZCA committees and working groups, including ANZCA Council, the Education and Training Committee, the Assessments Committee, the Workplace-based Assessments Committee, the Examinations Committee, the Training Accreditation Committee, the Curriculum Redesign Steering Group, the Provisional Fellowship Assessment Panel, the Training and Education Document Development Group, the e-Learning Working Group and the Welfare of Anaesthetists Special Interest Group. Trainees also are represented on several special interest groups.

Working alongside the Group of Australian Society of Anaesthetists Clinical Trainees (GASACT) and trainee representatives from the New Zealand Society of Anaesthetists (NZSA), anaesthesia trainees can be confident that their best interests are being looked after across not only training, but also the industrial domain.

EMAC Sub-Committee

The EMAC Sub-Committee was formed in 2012 to replace the Courses Working Group. This sub-committee oversees the Effective Management of Anaesthetic Crises (EMAC) course. EMAC is owned by ANZCA and simulation centres in Australia, New Zealand and south-east Asia. These centres are accredited and licensed to offer the course to ANZCA trainees and other participants. The EMAC course is mandatory in the revised curriculum.
Education development

In 2012, the Education Development Unit worked with the Curriculum Redesign Steering Group to gain ANZCA Council approval of the revised anaesthesia training program curriculum.

Workplace-based assessment training was delivered throughout Australia and New Zealand and all regional and national committees were educated about the training program, and prepared for the launch of the training portfolio system (TPS).

Curriculum launch events began in the final months of the year in Australia and New Zealand and the TPS launched in New Zealand in December.

Four Foundation Teacher Courses were delivered, the first pilot of the online Foundation Teacher Course was run and the e-learning section of the website was enhanced.

Highlights

- Completion of the anaesthesia training program curriculum.
- Delivery of workplace-based assessment workshops, curriculum and training portfolio system training events throughout Australia and New Zealand.
- Delivery of the face-to-face Foundation Teacher Course and launch and piloting of the online Foundation Teacher Course.
- Publication of podcasts to prepare trainees for both the primary and final examination.
- Launch of the improved e-learning section of the website and improved video hosting solution.

Training and support for clinical teachers

Four face-to-face Foundation Teacher Courses were delivered in 2012. These allowed participants to develop the expertise needed to teach ANZCA trainees. The education, training and development manager also focused on co-facilitating and supporting the workplace-based assessment workshops delivered in Australia and New Zealand.

The Clinical Teacher Development Working Group (CTDVG) was re-established to review the face-to-face and online Foundation Teacher Courses. The group met in November to plan a review of the courses and to plan the extended roll out of the course by developing a teacher course faculty. The CTDVG has initiated the development of an intermediate course to train individuals with teaching experience to act as local champions for facilitating future Foundation Teacher Courses. All face-to-face courses had full attendance in 2012 and expansion will ensure that the College can properly meet the needs of Fellows involved in teaching.

Development of the online Foundation Teacher Course progressed throughout the year. The first four modules were launched at the Perth annual scientific meeting in May and piloted by the first group of registered Fellows. The pilot provided the Education Development Unit with rich feedback to continue to improve online modules and to complete an additional four modules so that all modules of the face-to-face Foundation Teacher Course also exist in an online format. Participants can then benefit from a blended face-to-face and online learning experience when developing new knowledge and advanced teaching expertise.

The online course provides an interactive experience for Fellows and provisional Fellows who are unable to attend the face-to-face course or prefer the online experience. Webinars were delivered for participants periodically throughout the course to enable real-time collaboration to share experiences in teaching and to seek expert advice from ANZCA’s education, training and development manager. The course provides interactive activities for participants to follow at their own pace and to develop expertise in teaching trainees in the clinical and educational environment.

The College’s virtual learning environment “Moodle” was upgraded in November 2012. It now provides a superior interactive arena for learning with improved access to forums, a more contemporary, improved interface for a stimulating online experience. There is further potential for integration with the College’s IT infrastructure and learning media solutions in the digital age. The College’s e-learning development manager and the Strategic Project Office delivered this project.

Podcasts and webinars

During 2012, video podcasts were recorded covering the new areas of the primary exam and introductory training, thanks to funding from Queensland Health. Podcasts also were recorded covering cultural competency and indigenous health. These podcasts will be of interest to rural medical specialists, trainees or international medical graduate specialists caring for indigenous Australians. They were developed using funding from the Committee of Presidents of Medical Colleges (CPMC) under the Rural Health Continuing Education (RHCE) sub-program stream.

Podcasts were accompanied with real-time, interactive webinars presented by Fellows and the monthly webinars were popular throughout 2012. The webinars were facilitated by the College e-Learning Project Officer using online webinar technology.

In December, a new, improved e-learning section was added to the ANZCA website. All media was transferred to a new video hosting solution to enable higher quality, richer media delivery the meet the expectations of trainees and Fellows for high definition e-learning resources.

The new e-learning section will provide easy access to podcasts and categories ANZCA’s podcast library in the following areas:

- Podcasts to support trainees in introductory training.
- Podcasts to prepare trainees for the primary exam.
- Podcasts and e-learning resources to prepare trainees for the final exam.
- Podcasts providing information and education relating to the revised curriculum for trainees and Fellows.
- Podcasts for trainees and Fellows learning about specialist topics in pain medicine.
- Podcasts assisting trainees and Fellows who work with indigenous and culturally diverse patients.

ANZCA webinars – a snapshot of 2012

- 10 Interactive webinars took place to assist trainees with their preparation for the primary and final exam.
- A total of 233 trainees participated.
- Trainees logged in to webinars from all over Australia, Singapore, Malaysia and New Zealand.
- Webinars covered a range of topics including anaesthetic breathing circuits, foetal and neonatal physiology, measurement of CVS function and trauma.
- The most popular webinar was Tips for the final exam with a total of 71 trainees logging in at one time.
- The most popular feature of the webinar as indicated by the feedback from trainees was the ability to interact with the presenter and other trainees in a safe and casual environment.

Webinars covered a range of topics including anaesthetic breathing circuits, foetal and neonatal physiology, measurement of CVS function and trauma.
ANZCA granted $1,054,691 through the Anaesthesia and Pain Medicine Foundation for research projects in 2013, a 22 per cent increase over the previous year. The foundation worked to increase its capacity to support research and education programs led by Fellows, vital for the future quality and safety of patient care. A high priority was placed on attempting to re-engage three founding sponsors after their sponsorship agreements expired in 2011, five years after commencing in 2007.

The foundation sought to expand its funding base by researching and lodging submissions with philanthropic trusts and foundations, appeals to Fellows and significantly improving the online information and giving options through new foundation pages and a more visible profile on the ANZCA website.

Highlights
- $1,054,691 granted to Fellows for new research projects.
- Foundation board endorsement of purpose statement and strategic action plans.
- New foundation pages on the ANZCA website.
- Pfizer invitation to submit pain research sponsorship proposal.
- Trusts and foundations program commencement.
- New foundation presence in New Zealand.
- Growth of the foundation’s profile.
- Re-engaging corporate sponsors.

$1,054,691 granted to Fellows for new research projects
The record amount of $1,054,691 granted for research projects commencing in 2013 came from an additional Academic Enhancement Grant (AEG) using funding held over from 2010 when an AEG grant was not made, the quadrennial Douglas Joseph Professorship, and annual project, simulation, novice and pilot grants.

A clearer purpose
A strategic review of the Anaesthesia and Pain Medicine Foundation completed in late 2011 was used to develop strategic and operational plans for 2012 and 2013. The foundation’s separate purpose and objectives statements were combined into a single, clear purpose statement, focusing on increasing support for research, education and overseas aid in the specialties. The foundation board endorsed these plans and the new purpose statement.

A new case for support
The new purpose statement was used to develop a case for support document as the basis for increased future fundraising activities. The messages in the case for support will be tested in future campaigns, and further developed to produce the best fundraising results, while reinforcing high-priority ANZCA communication strategies and messages.

A higher online profile
The existing single foundation page on the ANZCA website was replaced with a series of pages covering the foundation’s purpose and activities, the research and education programs it supports, ways in which people can provide support, recognition for donors, the Patrons Program, the bequest program and the support options and benefits packages available for corporate supporters.

Several new corporate support packages were developed to increase the appeal and value delivered by corporate sponsorship and these were included in the new corporate support page. The packages detail the corporate recognition benefits available to sponsors at progressively higher levels of support. Individual donors who wish to make a difference to the future of healthcare can download and use a new donation form. An online donation facility is planned for early 2013.

Direct mail appeals
Direct mail appeals were sent to Australian Fellows in May and to New Zealand Fellows in November, and an appeal was included in the end-of-year subscriptions mailing. Modest initial results highlighted the need to improve awareness of the Anaesthesia and Pain Medicine Foundation and its purpose among Fellows. However, the response from the subscriptions mailing appeal was encouraging, and surpassed that of the 2011 subscriptions mailing in less than half the elapsed time. Donations have continued to arrive at the foundation office into 2013.

Trusts and foundations
Work continued to establish a presence in the philanthropic trusts and foundations sector during the year, and several fundraising submissions and expressions of interest were lodged for research projects, Indigenous and overseas aid projects, and the Geoffrey Kaye Museum. Three submissions were lodged for 2013 funding rounds (for which outcomes will be advised in June) and research was conducted to identify further opportunities for 2013.

New Zealand
With ANZCA listed as a “donee” organisation by Inland Revenue in New Zealand and the New Zealand National Committee listed as a charity by the Charities Commission, the Anaesthesia and Pain Medicine Foundation and the New Zealand National Committee launched a direct-mail campaign to Fellows in November heralding a new presence for the foundation in New Zealand. For the first time, an appeal letter was sent out on New Zealand letterhead signed by the New Zealand National Committee Chair, Dr Geoff Long. Fellows were able to send their responses to the New Zealand office rather than the Melbourne office for receipting.

The foundation’s profile
The Anaesthesia and Pain Medicine Foundation did much work during the year to increase awareness of the foundation and its cause, not only among Fellows, but also within external audiences of potential supporters including corporations and the philanthropic sector. The foundation’s profile gradually improved during 2012, which is crucial to preparing the way for increasing fundraising returns in future years.

Corporate sponsorship
After the five-year sponsorship agreements with the foundation’s founding sponsors, Mundipharma, Pfizer Australia and St Jude Medical Australia expired in 2011, the foundation team approached each company regarding the possibility of new sponsorship agreements. As a result, Mundipharma agreed to continue to sponsor the foundation, and although financial constraints initially prevented Pfizer Australia from continuing its sponsorship, it has since invited the foundation to submit a proposal for a new sponsorship focusing on support for research into pain medicine. The foundation submitted a proposal in November and a decision is expected during 2013. St Jude Medical is currently considering the possibility of support during 2013.

The foundation greatly appreciates the contribution made by these sponsors and its valued individual donors to the advancement of medical research in pain medicine and anaesthesia.

Rob Packer
General Manager, Anaesthesia and Pain Medicine Foundation
Research funding increased from $A757,000 in 2010 to over $A1 million in 2012.
Policy and government

ANZCA’s Policy unit is a skilled multidisciplinary team that complements and supports the contribution of Fellows and trainees to achieve positive outcomes in the development of policy and liaison with government and related bodies.

In 2012, the Policy unit co-ordinated the development of a new five-year strategic plan, a comprehensive training and accreditation handbook and ANZCA’s submissions and assessment process for accreditation by the Australian Medical Council.

To influence policy and represent anaesthesia and pain medicine, the Policy unit regularly meets with external stakeholders. Key meetings were held with the Australian Medical Council, the Policy unit regularly meets with external stakeholders.

Australian Medical Council and other submissions

Each year ANZCA seeks to inform and influence health policy and service delivery across Australia and New Zealand by participating in government inquiries. In 2012 ANZCA made several submissions on various topics, which are available on the ANZCA website: www.anzca.edu.au/communications/submissions.

In March 2012 the College, including the Faculty of Pain Medicine, provided comprehensive submissions for reaccreditation to the Australian Medical Council and the Medical Council of New Zealand. The submissions, addressing nine accreditation standards, were the first phase of the re-accreditation process in both Australia and New Zealand. After considering these submissions, the Australian Medical Council undertook a series of consultations at ANZCA and FPM’s offices and accredited training sites. In December, the College’s training and continuing professional development programs were granted accreditation to December 31, 2018 (New Zealand pending).

Professional documents

In November 2011, the ANZCA Council approved a new policy model relating to the 2013 training program, designed to maximise clarity and accessibility. During 2012, the College undertook significant effort to rationalise and streamline the College’s professional documents, mainly through the work of the Training and Education Document Development Group. Following extensive consultation, Regulation 37: Training in Anaesthesia Leading to FANZCA, and Accreditation of Facilities to Deliver this Curriculum and the complementary ANZCA Handbook for Training and Accreditation.

The College undertook significant effort to rationalise and streamline the College’s professional documents, mainly through the work of the Training and Education Document Development Group. Following extensive consultation, Regulation 37: Training in Anaesthesia Leading to FANZCA, and Accreditation of Facilities to Deliver this Curriculum and the complementary ANZCA Handbook for Training and Accreditation were launched. These documents replace the training and educational (TE) professional documents for trainees, Fellows and facilities in Australia and New Zealand, from the start of the 2013 hospital employment year.

Further, the (T) category of professional documents was abolished and these documents rebadged as professional standards (PS). Several other professional documents were subjected to the standard review process in addition to these achievements.

Overseas aid

ANZCA provides educational activities and resources for anaesthesia delivery in the Asia-Pacific region. Educational activities were funded via courses in Papua New Guinea (PNG) and attendance at PNG’s annual medical and anaesthesia symposium. Several Lifebox pulse oximeters (purchased using funds raised by donations from Fellows and trainees at the 2012 Perth annual scientific meeting) and 40 copies of the real world anaesthesia library were distributed to representatives from 40 PNG hospitals and clinics during PNG’s annual anaesthesia refresher course. PNG anaesthetist Dr Lisa Akelisi-Yootopua was sponsored to attend ANZCA’s Perth ASM.

The inaugural overseas aid trainee scholarship was awarded in 2012 to Dr Stephen Smith, who travelled to Vanuatu to provide relief clinical support at the Vila Central Hospital during the Pacific Society of Anaesthetists conference.

Delivery of the Essential Pain Management (EPM) program continued with expanded access to courses introduced into the Americas in Honduras, Vietnam, Malaysia, Thailand and additional courses run in PNG, Cook Islands, Kenya, Fiji and Vanuatu. The ANZCA Council approved the establishment of an Essential Pain Management Sub-Committee to manage the increasingly popular pain management program, developed specifically for doctors working in developing countries.

Indigenous health

ANZCA’s Indigenous Health Committee has continued to develop initiatives to improve access to mainstream health services, and to ensure high quality and safe anaesthesia, perioperative medicine and pain medicine healthcare providers.

It has been working on the following initiatives:

1. Finalised recordings of the indigenous health podcast series to facilitate better understanding of indigenous health issues among anaesthesia, perioperative medicine and pain medicine healthcare providers.

2. Developed case studies as part of ANZCA revised curriculum to explore various indigenous health issues.

3. Supported existing indigenous medical student and high school student mentoring programs, and established a new mentoring program in Newcastle.

4. Represented ANZCA on cross-college initiatives to develop intercultural e-learning for medical specialists and the Network for Indigenous Cultural and Health Education project.

5. Attended the Pacific Region Indigenous Doctors’ Congress in October, which was hosted by the Australian Indigenous Doctors’ Association in Alice Springs, and provided encouragement to indigenous doctors considering specialising in anaesthesia.

6. Developed a standardised indigenous status identifier question, to facilitate the monitoring of numbers of indigenous trainees and Fellows.

Specialist Training Program

The College has developed a successful relationship with the Australian Department of Health and Ageing through the Specialist Training Program (STP). The College managed 37 training positions during the 2012 training year. In addition, the College implemented related support projects including e-learning initiatives for Fellows and trainees, as well as training and support for international medical graduate specialists (IMGs) via the Overseas Trained Specialist Anaesthesia Network.

STP funding supports increased specialist training in private, rural and regional hospitals and the Australian government has committed funding until the end of the 2015-16. The College will continue to manage training posts for anaesthesia and pain medicine and intensive care medicine during this period.

The College received nine new training positions, including three allocated to pain medicine, as part of the 2013 STP application round. This means the College will manage 48 training positions in 2013, including 11 positions managed on behalf of the College of Intensive Care Medicine. In 2012 the College also began visiting Australian regions with the aim of improving engagement with regional committees, Fellows, trainees and hospitals, to gain advice on local matters and assess areas where capacity could be developed in the future.

New Zealand

The health policy environment in New Zealand continues to be dominated by workforce issues, including proposals to introduce new and extended scopes of practice. The New Zealand office has been actively engaged with Health Workforce New Zealand (HWNZ) on physician assistants, and on the funding of training places for anaesthesia relative to other disciplines. The New Zealand National Committee submitted on the first stage of the HWNZ-led review of the Health Practitioner Competence Assurance Act, noting the emphasis placed on legislation as a means to manage workforce issues. ANZCA will submit on the second and third rounds of consultation on this review in mid-2013.

Quality and safety in healthcare and the competence of health professionals are areas that will continue to be key policy themes in 2013. The Medical Council of New Zealand, the Health Quality and Safety Commission and the Health and Disability Commissioner are actively developing and promoting policies and programs to improve patient safety and outcomes.

General Manager, Policy
Communications

High quality, informative communications with Fellows, trainees, staff and external audiences remains the goal of the Communications unit. In 2012, the unit produced four high-quality issues of the ANZCA Bulletin, 11 informative ANZCA E-Newsletters and six editions of Gasbag. The unit also supported the production of 10 editions of the Training E-Newsletter and four editions of Synapse. Media activity continues to grow and improvements to the website continue.

Highlights
- Informed the community about anaesthesia and pain medicine through 45 media releases distributed throughout Australia and New Zealand.
- Initiated media reports about anaesthesia and pain medicine that reached an estimated cumulative audience of 18.6 million.
- Awarded the inaugural 2011 ANZCA Media Award to New Zealand journalist Lorelei Mason from TVNZ.
- Produced six quality multi-media e-newsletters during the 2012 Perth Annual Scientific Meeting.
- Developed and distributed the FANZCA logo.

Publications
The Communications unit continued to produce high quality publications including the quarterly ANZCA Bulletin, the 2011 ANZCA Annual Report, e-newsletters including the ANZCA E-Newsletter, Gasbag (New Zealand), the weekly internal e-newsletter, Staff Update, the 2011 ANZCA Annual Report and supported the production of the Training E-Newsletter and Synapse.

The March edition of the ANZCA Bulletin featured a series of articles on ANZCA’s 20th anniversary, the June edition highlighted the Perth annual scientific meeting and the September edition carried a well-received feature on scientific misconduct and its effect on anaesthesia.

The Communications unit also produced daily multimedia e-newsletters during the Perth annual scientific meeting for Fellows and trainees at the meeting and others who did not attend. The e-newsletters contained recordings of many lectures including all keynote speaker presentations. They included brief interviews with the keynote speakers, daily messages from key College figures, photographs and media updates.

Support to ANZCA business units included proofing and designing the College’s website, developing and implementing the revised curriculum, designing collateral for the revised curriculum and implementing the ANZCA and FPM strategic plans. Ongoing activities, such as providing communications advice, continue.

The Bulk Communications Policy has been developed. The policy aims to ensure that ANZCA applies a consistent approach in its bulk communications to Fellows, trainees and other key stakeholders via mail and email and focuses on accuracy, compliance with the ANZCA Style Guide, correct messaging, and professional design standards.

Media
College-initiated media reports about anaesthesia and pain medicine reached an estimated cumulative audience of 18.6 million people in Australia and New Zealand in 2012, according to ANZCA’s media monitoring service – a 175 per cent increase on 2011. The Communications unit issued 45 media releases and generated 968 media reports.

Media coverage at the Perth annual scientific meeting was very successful with nine media releases issued, resulting in 347 media reports. This coverage reached a potential cumulative audience of 6.333.646 and was valued at more than $709,000 (advertising space rates). The Communications unit invited the health editors of The Australian (News Ltd), The Age (Fairfax) and AAP to attend the ASM and this was well justified. The journalists wrote 18 stories between them that were widely syndicated.

The work of the Overseas Aid Committee was highlighted by a trip to Papua New Guinea by ANZCA Media Manager, Meaghan Shaw, who accompanied the Chair of ANZCA’s Overseas Aid Committee, Dr Michael Cooper, and senior Adelaide anaesthetist, Dr Chris Acott, to the PNG Medical Symposium in September. Nearly 60 media reports in Australia, New Zealand and PNG were generated following the donation of 93 Lifesbox pulse oximeters and medical text books to 40 PNG hospitals, as well as the subsequent paediatric surgical trip to Mount Hagen conducted by Dr Cooper.

ANZCA-related research attracted much media attention, including studies led by Professor Paul Mylles on redheads and pain, Dr Mary Hegarty on the effects of anaesthesia on young children, Dr Ben van der Grindt on the risk of death related to anaesthesia in healthy children undergoing operations, and Professor Kate Leslie, Associate Professor Andrew Davidson and Professor Jamie Sleigh on a possible genetic link to anaesthesia awareness.

Another media highlight was Dr Rob Ray, from the Anaesthetic Group Ballarat, who is also a qualified commercial pilot and trained in aviation medicine, who addressed a meeting of rural anaesthetists and intensivists in Torquay, Victoria, about what to expect when responding to in-flight emergencies. This story was covered by 45 media outlets.

The Communications unit issued 18 pain-related media releases, with several media stories generating huge audience numbers, including features in Fairfax papers and in The Australian on chronic pain and opioid misuse.

Five media statements were issued specifically for a New Zealand audience, including three publicising the NZ Anaesthesia Annual Scientific Meeting and 13th International Congress of Cardiothoracic and Vascular Anaesthesia, one welcoming the inaugural report of the Perioperative Mortality Review Committee, and one welcoming the accreditation of pain medicine as a scope of practice in New Zealand.

The inaugural 2011 ANZCA Media Award was presented to New Zealand journalist Lorelei Mason from TVNZ in early 2012.

FANZCA logo
The Communications unit designed the new FANZCA logo, seen as a tangible benefit of fellowship that can be used designed for use on stationery, business cards and slides. A CD containing guidelines and the logo was included a much-improved subscriptions pack that was developed by Communications and Fellowship Affairs. The pack outlined some of the College’s plans for 2013 and contained a brochure outlining many of the benefits of being a Fellow, a much-improved invoice and information about the Anaesthesia and Pain Medicine Foundation.

Website
Improvements to the website continue in consultation with responsible units. The Education Development Unit made major changes to the “Trainees” section, changing it to “Training” and adding information pertaining to the revised training program. The Anaesthesia and Pain Medicine Foundation also underwent a significant upgrade and a “Benefits of fellowship” section was added to outline the many activities undertaken by the College that benefit Fellows.

The homepage of the website has been used on many occasions for important safety alerts.

34 ANZCA Annual Report 2012
Enhancements to EMS will continue in 2013 to provide further improvements to support the operations of both the ANZCA primary and final examinations.

CPD for mobile

CPD for mobile was launched by the Strategic Project office in conjunction with the Fellowship Affairs unit in November 2012, providing ANZCA Fellows with simple and easy-to-use access via a mobile phone to their online CPD portfolio. As a result, the CPD system is now accessible anytime and anywhere (via desktop, laptop, tablet, iPad, iPhone and other devices) making it much easier to record CPD activities as they occur.

Training portfolio system

In December 2012, the training portfolio system was launched to support the delivery of the revised ANZCA curriculum. The system was launched on December 10 with the transition of 196 New Zealand trainees into the program. The training portfolio system provides trainees, supervisory roles and ANZCA administration real-time access to the trainees’ portfolio. This delivers up-to-date information on how the trainee is tracking against the revised training program. The system also provides a consolidated view of trainee data to support the progression of a trainee through the training program and finally to become an ANZCA Fellow.

Online event registration

The Strategic Project office and Fellowship Affairs unit initiated a redevelopment of the events area of the ANZCA website, significantly improving the view and search facilities of both ANZCA and non-ANZCA events.

Following the revision of the events area of the website, a project was launched to deliver an online event registration system for ANZCA-run events. This system will facilitate the registration and payment over a web-based platform greatly reducing the time that it takes for a Fellow to register and pay for an event. This system will be delivered early in 2013.

Strategic Project Office

Strategic projects

The Strategic Project office was formed in August 2012 to provide the overarching governance and management of ANZCA’s strategic and compliance projects, with a focus on those projects delivering technology-based outcomes to Fellows and trainees of the College. It reports directly to the ANZCA CEO.

The Strategic Project Office, whose roles were previously part of IT successfully delivered the continuing professional development (CPD) for mobile solution and assumed responsibility for implementing the new training portfolio system (TPS) to support the revised ANZCA curriculum.

The Strategic Project Office was established to deliver customer-centric solutions to engage the Fellows and trainees and provide ownership of their own information, through the use of flexible online services via website and mobile-based technology.

ANZCA IM/IT roadmap

In October 2012, the ANZCA Council approved the ANZCA IM/IT roadmap, which provides a clear plan of the technology-based outcomes that the College will deliver to improve the services provided to trainees and Fellows throughout 2013 and 2014. During 2012 there was a strong focus on delivery of systems that will support trainees and the introduction of the revised curriculum. In 2013 the focus will move towards Fellows, with the introduction of multiple online services initiatives, including a revised continuing professional development (CPD) system and improved online library services.

To support the future delivery of the ANZCA IM/IT roadmap, a number of initiatives were delivered in 2012 to upgrade existing core platforms and information technology environments. These initiatives have provided the building blocks for work that will be undertaken during 2013 and 2014.

Exam management system foundation release

In May 2012, the Strategic Project Office and Training and Assessments unit implemented the revised EMS foundation system to provide a more stable technical platform to support the operations of the ANZCA primary and final examinations. In December, to coincide with the release of the revised ANZCA curriculum, the EMS system was further enhanced to support the new integrated primary exam.

Highlights

- Delivery of the ANZCA information management (IM)/IT roadmap paving the way for future information systems delivering customer centric solutions.
- Delivery of the training portfolio system (TPS) to support the revised ANZCA curriculum.
- Delivery of the revised exam management system (EMS) foundation system to provide an enhanced user experience for management of exams.
- Upgrade of ANZCA’s core platform of iMIS and implementation of new technical infrastructure, both of which provide a solid base from which the future roadmap can be achieved.
- Delivery of the CPD for mobile solution.
- Delivery of enhancements to the existing online services and EMS systems to support the revised ANZCA curriculum.

Online event registration

The Strategic Project office and Fellowship Affairs unit initiated a redevelopment of the events area of the ANZCA website, significantly improving the view and search facilities of both ANZCA and non-ANZCA events.

Following the revision of the events area of the website, a project was launched to deliver an online event registration system for ANZCA-run events. This system will facilitate the registration and payment over a web-based platform greatly reducing the time that it takes for a Fellow to register and pay for an event. This system will be delivered early in 2013.

In New Zealand, ANZCA has responded with an advocacy strategy, a dedicated policy project adviser, a workforce study and increasing formal submissions.
Australian regions

The regions play an important role in supporting Fellows and trainees throughout Australia.

Queensland

The Queensland Regional Committee has welcomed the release of the ANZCA strategic plan and is aligning its activity to address the four strategic priorities.

The first priority of advancing standards through training, education, accreditation and research has been the major focus as the regional education officer, Jeneen Thatcher, has led the comprehensive preparation for the roll out of the revised curriculum.

Funding from the Queensland Health Ministerial Taskforce to support delivery of anaesthetic services in regional areas has allowed the education officer and workplace-based assessor champions to visit all regional hospitals to ensure that practical implications of the revised curriculum have been expertly communicated to all stakeholders. This funding also is supporting the continuation of the podcast/webinar project, which began in 2011. Podcasts have been recorded to address the learning outcomes of introductory training and the webinar series will follow in 2013.

As in previous years, education and training activity has been delivered by a capable team of course convenors, lecturers and mock examiners. The annual conference was well attended and set new standards of excellence.

The newly elected Queensland Regional Committee expanded its regional representation by welcoming three new members, who practise outside the Brisbane metropolitan area.

New South Wales

The NSW Regional Committee farewelled some long-standing hard-working committee members in the first half of 2012.

Six new members joined the committee in time to help guide the introduction of the revised curriculum. The regional education officer and educational champions conducted extensive training at departmental level and with supervisors of training. There were frequent meetings with ANZCA representatives, including officers responsible for the revised curriculum, throughout the year. All concerned worked diligently to prepare for the delivery of the revised curriculum.

The NSW Regional Committee continued its advocacy and dialogue with the NSW Ministry of Health through the Agency of Clinical Innovation and the Clinical Excellence Commission, covering areas such as safe sedation, surgical checklists, workforce and trainee employment.

ANZCA and the NSW Regional Committee made a strong commitment to hospital accreditation in what was a busy accreditation year.

Education continued with the NSW ACE Committee combined with the Australian Society of Anaesthetists successfully producing both metropolitan and rural education meetings.

Australian Capital Territory
The ACT region held the “Art of Anaesthesia” meeting, chaired and organised by Professor Thomas Bruessel, on the first weekend of March. Titled “Outcome: What really makes a difference?”, the meeting was well received with talks from international and local speakers. Registrant numbers were pleasing despite the region flooding during the conference and feedback about the event has been positive. The ACT region also ran a successful trainee workshop at the Canberra Hospital in November with speaker Patry Tremayne. This year the focus was on more general approaches to examinations and coping with the fallout in the event of failure. Attendance was excellent, reflecting the value of such sessions.

Victoria
In May 2012 the Victorian Regional Committee (VRC) began a new term of office, which will expire in April 2014. New office bearers were elected and in accordance with our terms of reference a new Fellow was co-opted to the VRC for 12 months from June 2012. An additional general member was also co-opted and the new Fellow to Council was welcomed as an ex-officio member of the VRC. In 2012 the Faculty of Pain Medicine nominated Dr Michael Vagg to sit on our committee as their representative. Committee meetings were held as scheduled throughout the year. Dedicated time and effort from the conveners and lecturers of our final and primary pre-fellowship courses ensured the trainees would be prepared for the revised ANZCA curriculum in 2013. We continue to reach full capacity in all our courses with positive feedback from participants.

The VRC also ran a successful combined ANZCA/Australian Society of Anaesthetists continuing medical education meeting in July with a record number of attendees.

South Australia/ Northern Territory
The South Australia and Northern Territory Regional Office celebrated its first year in new accommodation, which proved to be a huge success. There has been an increase by at least 50 per cent in the use of College facilities by both Fellows and trainees. A “hot desk” has been established in a designated quiet room, which is now regularly frequented by ANZCA trainees seeking undisturbed study time and consultants escaping their busy workplaces to undertake committee and supervisor of training administration work.

Trainee welfare representatives (FANZCAs) have been established in the anaesthesia department of accredited ANZCA hospitals, a key resource to provide support and resources for South Australian and Northern Territory anaesthesia trainees during their busy and sometimes stressful training journey.

The third annual trainee dinner was held in November, providing trainees with an opportunity to socialise and network after a year of hard work and exams.

Continuing medical education highlights for South Australia and Northern Territory included the evening meeting “Indigenous health and anaesthesia” featuring a video conference with Dr Janelle Trees, a GP who works in a closed Aboriginal community in Mutijulu, near Yulara. Dr Trees gave a very insightful and personal talk on indigenous spiritual beliefs, “spirit in and out” to SA and NT hospitals from Uluru-Kata Tjuta National Park.

The ANZCA/Australian Society of Anaesthetists South Australia and Northern Territory Annual Scientific Meeting, “Anaesthesia and the failing organ”, was held in November at The Sanctuary, Adelaide Zoo. With just under 100 delegates in attendance and an excellent speaker program, including controversial topics such as organ procurement and what Australia needs to do to increase its organ donation rate, the meeting was highly commented by attendees.

In 2012, much effort was spent developing the ANZCA and FPM strategic plans for the next five years.

Western Australia

In 2012, the Western Australian Regional Office has focused on education through events and tutorials. The ANZCA/Australian Society of Anaesthetists WA combined continuing medical education committee presented two conferences in 2012 and hosted the ANZCA annual scientific meeting. The combined conferences focused on “Hectic obstetrics and frenetic anaesthetics”, with Dr Warwick Ngan Kee from Hong Kong as the key speaker and “What’s new in anaesthesia” with the key speaker Dr Tracey Tay.

Part 2 tutorials have continued to be held at the ANZCA office and through the hospital campuses. All trainees are encouraged to attend these tutorials. The WA office also has prepared for the new curriculum through teleconferences and meetings with the Melbourne office.

Major achievements for the New Zealand National Committee in 2012 included winning Medical Council of New Zealand accreditation of pain medicine as a scope of practice in New Zealand, the formal release of the ANZCA New Zealand Anaesthesia Workforce Study, a round of visits to New Zealand anaesthesia departments, New Zealand Fellows and office staff making a significant contribution to the outstanding success of the major anaesthesia conference in Auckland and starting work on establishing a New Zealand trainee welfare support system.

Pain medicine recognition

The NZNC was delighted after a lengthy application process, in October the Medical Council of New Zealand (MCNZ) accredited pain medicine as a scope of practice. See also the Faculty of Pain Medicine section, page 54.

The two-stage application process was led by ANZCA’s Director of Professional Affairs, Dr Stuart Henderson, the immediate past FPM dean, New Zealand based Dr David Jones, and Heather Ann Moodie, the General Manager of ANZCA’s New Zealand National Office.

ANZCA New Zealand Anaesthesia Workforce Study

The ANZCA New Zealand Anaesthesia Workforce Study (The Demand For and Supply of Anaesthesia Services in New Zealand 2010-2030 - available on www.anzca.org.nz) was discussed with key stakeholders before being released generally. This staggered release was in keeping with the NZNC’s advocacy strategy.

The process began with a briefing with the health minister in March, followed by discussions with the Association of Salated Medical Specialists, the Medical Council of New Zealand, the NZ Medical Association, Health Workforce New Zealand and the Medical Sciences Council.

ANZCA received a very positive response to the study, being congratulated on the robustness of its data and for making this level of analysis available for consideration in workforce issues. A highly beneficial aspect of releasing the study this way was the opportunity for strengthening ANZCA’s relationship with these stakeholders.

The NZNC uses the study’s results to inform its policy deliberations with government and other key stakeholders on the critical issues of anaesthesia service delivery in New Zealand, the timely delivery of these services, and the maintenance of quality and safety standards within the profession.

NZ Anaesthesia ASM/ICCA

ANZCA, along with the New Zealand Society of Anaesthetists, co-hosted the 2012 NZ Anaesthesia ASM and 13th International Congress of Cardiothoracic and Vascular Anaesthesia combined conference held in Auckland in November.

The organising committee was drawn from Auckland City Hospital and led by co-convenors Dr Martin Huissey and Dr Ivan Bergman, with Professor Alan Merry heading the Scientific Program Advisory Group. Highlights were:

- Total attendance of more than 650.
- Over 100 speakers, some 55 from Australia and New Zealand and another 50 from various countries – probably the best line-up of speakers yet at an anaesthesia conference in New Zealand.
- A fully-subscribed healthcare industry exhibition.
- Registrants from some 22 countries, though most from Australia and New Zealand.
- An outstanding scientific program covering both the specialist cardiothoracic and vascular stream as well as a wide range of other anaesthesia topics.
- Extensive range of workshops, breakfast sessions and PBLDs.
- Approximately 50 posters.
- A healthy financial surplus.
- Raising $NZ18,000 at the gala dinner for the World Federation of Societies of Anaesthesiology Lifesbox Project.

Anæsthesia department visits

ANZCA CEO Ms Linda Sorrell and NZNC Chair Dr Geoff Long visited nine departments of anaesthesia around New Zealand during the last week in August. Christchurch, Taranaki Base, Wellington, Auckland (L4 and L8), Waikato, Middlemore, Timaru and Dunedin, attracting a total attendance of about 165. Linda Sorrell spoke mainly about developments to do with the introduction of the revised curriculum, while Geoff Long outlined NZNC activities and achievements. Both were available to answer questions.

General registrants

The Medical Council of New Zealand (MCNZ) introduced new prescriptive recertification requirements for general registrants (with some exceptions) and selected Best Practice Advocacy Service of Dunedin (bpacnz) to develop and run mandatory and prescriptive recertification programs for general registrants. Following consultation with ANZCA (and others), the MCNZ agreed that general registrants who were enrolled in a college continuing professional development program as at March 14, 2012 would not have to undertake the bpaconz program as well, as long as the college program fulfills all the MCNZ requirements by 2014.

Trainee welfare

The NZNC is supporting a major new initiative from the NZ Trainee Committee (NZTC), which looks at how to establish a welfare system for New Zealand trainees, along the lines of the system in South Australia/Northern Territory. A working group comprising members of the NZTC and the national education officer prepared a proposal and New Zealand trainees were surveyed to determine the level of support available, any regional variations and the types of support services trainees would like to have. The survey also sought information about stressors inside and outside the workplace.

Faculty of Pain Medicine

Since its formation in 1998, the Faculty of Pain Medicine (FPM) has grown into an organisation with more than 300 Fellows in Australia and New Zealand.

In 2012 FPM developed its Strategic Plan 2013-2017 which is based around our mission and vision, and three strategic priorities. The Faculty arrives in 2013 with a strong foundation through the hard work and dedication of its boards and members.

Highlights
- Phase 1 of FPM Curriculum Redesign Project 2015 completed, including a proposed new curriculum framework.
- Completed Australian Medical Council Australian Medical Council processes for re-accreditation, including a submission and consultations.
- Successful application for specialty recognition of pain medicine in New Zealand.
- Successful development and launch of a GP Online Education Program on pain management in collaboration with the Royal Australian College of General Practitioners (RACGP) and funded by a $A200,000 grant from the Bupa Health Foundation.
- Contribution to policy submissions by ANZCA to authorities in Australia and New Zealand.
- Successful regional representation in NSW towards the NSW Pain Management Plan that has allocated $26 million of funding over four years.
- As part of this plan, $300,000 of annual recurrent funding has been allocated to support the benchmarking of outcomes in chronic pain across NSW via the electronic Persistent Pain Outcomes Collaboration (ePPOC). A two-year pilot study will commence in NSW in 2013 with this funding.
- Successful delivery of a comprehensive FPM continuing medical education (CME) program including the refresher course day and annual scientific meeting programs in Perth, the spring meeting in Cooolum and regional CME events.
- Contributed funding and representation to Painaustralia to support the implementation of the National Pain Strategy recommendations.
- Expansion of the educational podcast library for FPM Fellows and trainees.
- Widespread media coverage and publicity for pain medicine and FPM.

Relationships Portfolio

Relationships Liaison with colleges

The Faculty continued to establish and maintain links with participating and other colleges.

Australian and New Zealand College of Anaesthesiologists

The ANZCA President, Dr Lindy Roberts, and CEO, Ms Linda Sorrell, have a standing invitation to FPM Board meetings. Associate Professor David A Scott was nominated as ANZCA Council’s representative to the board in May and was welcomed at the August board meeting. The Faculty continued to have representation on most ANZCA committees and functions.

ANZCA and the Faculty collaborated closely on the development and consultation processes of their respective strategic plans and submissions to the Australian Medical Council for reaccreditation in 2012.

ANZCA’s Policy and Communications units provided support in co-ordinating the Faculty’s strategic planning and consultation processes in alignment with ANZCA. The Policy unit also co-ordinates Faculty contributions to an increasing number of submissions.

ANZCA’s Education Development Unit, which works with healthcare practitioners, provides resources and support to the Faculty, including educational expertise in the development of the Faculty’s curriculum redesign project, access to teacher and examiner training programs and e-learning resources for the development.

ANZCA’s Fellowship Affairs unit support included:

- Management of Fellows’ participation in the ANZCA/FPM CPD Program.
- Organisation of the FPM annual spring meeting.
- Organisation of FPM component to the annual scientific meeting.

The board endorsed the ANZCA Policy on Bullying, Discrimination and Harassment for Fellows and Trainees Acting on Behalf of the College or Undertaking College Functions.

Australian Faculty of Rehabilitation Medicine (Royal Australasian College of Physicians)

Dr Stephen de Graaf, Australasian Faculty of Rehabilitation Medicine (AFRM) president-elect and chair of the Policy and Advocacy Committee met with the board in October and offered useful advice for advancing the FPM electronic Persistent Pain Outcomes Collaboration initiative, based on the AFRM’s experience. The AFRM generously provided ongoing access to FPM trainees to their Bi-National Training Program (BNTP) sessions relevant to their training. Faculty trainees continued to take advantage of this opportunity.

Royal Australasian College of Surgeons

The highlight for the Royal Australasian College of Surgeons (RACS) Pain Medicine section was its involvement in the 2012 RACS Annual Scientific Congress (ASC) program. Associate Professor Zacest, chair of the RACS Pain Medicine section, was invited to observe the February 2012 board meeting and was elected to the board in May.

Royal Australian and New Zealand College of Psychiatrists

Psychiatrist Fellows continue involvement in all Faculty of Pain Medicine activities, both clinical and organisational. They correspond and meet regularly, and have more recently begun involving psychiatrists who are not FPM Fellows in these communications, with a view to promoting their interest in pain medicine while also supporting their clinical involvement with pain patients, nationally and internationally.

Royal Australian College of General Practitioners

The new GP Online educational program, a collaboration between FPM, the Royal Australian College of General Practitioners (RACGP) and the Bupa Health Foundation, was successfully delivered in 2012 and launched at both the FPM Spring Meeting in Coolum in September, and at the RACGP GP12 meeting on the Gold Coast in October. This new program will ensure healthcare providers have access to the best available evidence in cross-practice pain management, resulting in better outcomes for patients.

Australian Pain Society/New Zealand Pain Society

Regularly held teleconferences with the Australian Pain Society (APS) and New Zealand Pain Society (NZPS) continued in 2012 to share information and co-ordinate activities, especially educational events. Dr Chris Hayes was nominated as FPM Board representative to the APS Relationships and Communications Committee, replacing Dr Penny Briscoe.

The three organisations collaborated to develop a poster for launch of the IASP Global Year Against Visceral Pain on October 15. The Australian and New Zealand pain societies also collaborated in the electronic Persistent Pain Outcomes Collaboration (ePPOC) referred to elsewhere in this report.

Australian and New Zealand Tripartite Anesthetic Data Committee (ANZTADC)

The board supported inclusion of reporting pain management related complications and incidents, aimed at improving practice. The pathway for Fellows to notify such incidents is under investigation with ANZTADC and Fellows encouraged to submit data via the WebARS anaesthetic-incidence reporting tool.

Royal Australian and New Zealand College of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists

Dr Rupert Sherwood, President of the College of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists (RCOG), met with the board in February to explore areas for collaboration and opportunities to include pain medicine in the RANZCOG curriculum training and practice.

In 2012, FPM Fellow, Dr Susan Evans published an article, Pelvic Pain – An E-book for Women, Girls and Families, which has been widely distributed. Former FPM dean Associate Professor Roger Goucke and FPM Fellow Dr Tim Pavy co-authored an article published in the Australian and New Zealand Journal of Obstetrics and Gynaecology in December 2012, “Persisting post-pelvic pain: rising to the challenge”. An editorial, “Chronic pelvic pain in Australia and New Zealand”, by Chair of the Pelvic Pain Steering Committee and incident reporting system.

ANZTADC and Fellows encouraged to submit data via the WebARS anaesthetic-incidence reporting tool.

Corporate Affairs

Strategic planning

A number of initiatives relating to the Faculty’s 2010-2012 Strategic Plan were advanced in 2012 and are included elsewhere in this report.

In 2012, an updated strategic plan for 2013-2017 was developed in alignment with ANZCA’s planning process and launched at the Faculty’s Spring Meeting in Coolum. A series of focus workshops were held in February and May. A project plan and a consultation and communications workplan were developed and the consultation process commenced with the CEO meeting FPM regional chairs in conjunction with visits to ANZCA regions during February and March. External stakeholders were invited to comment and their feedback was considered at the May workshop. A summary of responses from the consultation process with key stakeholders helped identify strategic goals for FPM to 2017.

Aiming from the workshops and consultations, the Faculty’s driving aim for 2013-2017 is “building strength”. Key pillars of the strategy will be to:

- Build fellowship and the Faculty.
- Build the curriculum and knowledge.
- Build advocacy and access.

The Faculty shares the College’s mission “to serve the community by fostering safety and high quality patient care in anaesthesia, perioperative medicine and pain medicine”. The vision for the FPM is “to reduce the burden of pain in society through education, advocacy, training and research”.

National Pain Strategy

A key pillar of the Faculty’s strategic plan is to build advocacy and access through collaborative initiatives with Panaustralasia and the pain societies. The College and Faculty Policy and Strategy Committee, a member of Panaustralasia with a seat on its board.

A combined breakfast meeting of the boards of the Faculty, the Australian Pain Society (APS) and Panaustralasia convened during the APS ASM in March. A further meeting in Coolum in October brought together key representatives of the APS, NZPS, Panaustralasia, FPM and ANZTADC to discuss opportunities for closer collaboration to progress the implementation of the National Pain Strategy.

Regional committees

Western Australia

Dr John Aiters chaired two FPM WA Regional Committee meetings in 2012.

The impact of the expansion of WA Health on the anaesthetic trainee and fellowship positions was discussed and Dr Mouat: Burwass presented to the committee on proposal to use at St Charles Gardner Hospital.

New South Wales

The FPM NSW Regional Committee held elections in 2012. The committee is chaired by Dr Charles Brooker and retains a multidisciplinary membership.

The continuing education evening hosted by the Queensland branch have a range of stimulating dinners this year. The meetings were well attended and provided discussion and interest.

Two members – Professor Leigh Atkinson and Professor Arthur Duggan – retired from the committee in 2012. Both are thanked publicly and sincerely for their efforts and contributions in support of the Faculty.

South Australia
The interim committee, which had been active since November 2010, was phased out in February 2012 and replaced by an elected committee, with Dr Graham Wright as chair. Meetings were held in February, July and November. Michelle Gully has provided support to the committee. Each meeting has followed the format of committee meeting, followed by a simple meal and then an education session. Standard items on the agenda have been reshaped to reflect the Faculty’s strategic plan. The fellowship has maintained a policy of not accepting sponsorship for meetings. February 2012 was a combined meeting with the Australasian Chapter of Addiction Medicine, on the topic of opioid hazards and opioid reduction, with presentations from Dr Dilip Kapur from the Faculty, and Chris Holmond from the Chapter of Addiction Medicine. In July, neurosurgeons Associate Professor Andrew Zacest and Mr Y H Yau gave presentations on antineoplastics in pain medicine, and psychopathology in chronic pain.

Victoria
The FPM Victorian Regional Committee is now established with roles being finalised as the education meeting officer (for 2012) Dr Susan D’Innis, as vice-chair and Dr Clayton Thomas as chair. Meetings were held in February and November. Michelle Gully has provided support to the committee. Support for developing countries
The Essential Pain Management (EPM) program, initiated by former FPM dean Dr Roger Goucke and Dr Wayne Morris, has now been widely delivered throughout the Pacific Islands and has been translated into Vietnamese, Mongolian and Spanish with consideration for translating into Swahili. This endeavour reflects positively on the international profile of both the FPM and ANZCA.

Communications
Publications
The Faculty circulates the bi-monthly e-newsletter Synapse, the Training E-newsletter and contribute to the ANZCA E-Newsletter and the ANZCA Bulletin.

Publicity for pain medicine and FPM
The Faculty continued to work closely with the ANZCA Communications Unit as part of the College’s communication program. In 2012, there were 18 media releases distributed relating to pain medicine. The highlights included:

- FPM Spring Meeting

The media releases were issued for the FPM Spring Meeting – one looking at a proposal for urine and drug screening of chronic pain patients and another highlighting that children with chronic pain miss out on services and treatment. These releases generated more than 200 media reports accessed by more than 3.3 million people.

Global Year Against Visceral Pain
FPM Fellows Dr Susan Evans and Dr Thierry Vancaille worked with the ANZCA Communications Unit to produce a media release titled ‘Painful pain: the last of the modern taboos’ to help publicise the Global Year Against Visceral Pain.

Seven media reports resulted from this release, with coverage reaching a potential audience of nearly 40,000 people.

The FPM stream at the Perth ASM and Refresher Course Day were promoted to the media with the highlights being FPM Fellow Dr Bob Largie talking about hypnosis and pain management; US-based ANZCA ASM Visitor Professor Ruth Landau talking about the role of opioid in pain relief; and Fremantle pain specialist Dr Stevanie Davies outlining the success of the STEPS (Self-Training Education Pain Sessions) program in helping patients self-manage their pain. These stories alone generated 97 media reports, accessed by an estimated 2.7 million people.

Other highlights
Media releases were also issued to publicise a meeting at ANZCA House where medical experts with a broad range of experience in the use of opioids for pain relief sought a consensus view on the prescribing of opioids (generating 12 media reports for a potential audience of 261,036); a study looking at whether redheads feel more pain (potential audience 1.56 million, 260 media reports); and a paper written by FPM Fellows Consultant Associate Professor Milton Cohen and Dr Andrew Zacest outlining the need for more pain management professionals to have greater empathy for patients (potential audience 10,700, nine media reports).

Education
FPM Curriculum Redesign Project
Substantial progress was made toward developing the new curriculum for implementation in 2015. Phase 1 of the project was completed including the curriculum framework and accompanying program, for the training of junior specialist pain medicine physicians. Project information videos were developed and published on the FPM website in advance of webinars and face-to-face regional forums early in 2013 intended to give Fellows information and the opportunity to provide feedback. Phases 2 and 3 of the project will be advanced in 2013 and 2014 including content development, training design and change management.

Supervisors of training
A supervisors of training workshop was convened in Perth in May, focusing on the examination, revised clinical case study requirements and the Curriculum Redesign Project. Faculty Supervisors continued to have full access to basic and advanced ANZCA Teacher Courses.

Training agreement
A revised training agreement was developed and circulated to current trainees in 2012.

International medical graduates
In March, the Faculty received its first international medical graduate specialist (IMG) application for assessment in the field of pain medicine. Subsequently the Faculty formed an IMG Working Group, including representation from the ANZCA IMGs Committee and manager IMGs to review ANZCA registration rules with a view to the Faculty adapting this regulation in the development of Faculty processes. The group will also develop criteria for assessment of primary specialist qualifications from international jurisdictions for the board’s consideration.

Medical student prize
The Faculty continued its annual prize of a $500 book voucher and a certificate for the best medical student notes on pain medicine in either of the final two years of undergraduate medical training. As the allocation of the prize was expanded, several medical schools (Adelaide, Auckland, Deakin, Newcastle, Notre Dame, Otago, Sydney and Wollongong) have accepted the invitation to participate. The prize was awarded in December 2012 to a current student from the bachelor of medicine - joint medical program, University of Newcastle.

E-learning resources
The Faculty’s podcast library, available at www.fpm.anzca.edu.au/resources/e-learning-resources, was expanded with presentations on:

- Dr Meredith Craigie: FPM examination (updated)
- Dr Greta Palmer: Academic pain management in children
- Dr Linda Roberts: Acute pain management in opioid-tolerant patients: a growing challenge
- Professor Stephan Schug: Mechanisms of neuropathic pain
- Professor Stephan Schug: Treatment of neuropathic pain
- Professor Maree Smith: Opioid receptors

Examinations
2012 examination
The first Faculty of Pain Medicine examination to be convened outside of Australia was held in November 2012 at the Starship Children’s Health and Auckland City Hospital, Auckland. Twenty-eight candidates sat the exam; 22 were successful, giving a pass rate of 78.6 per cent. The examination report is available on the Faculty website. Local observer Dr Michel Kluger and new FPM examiner observers, Dr Clayton Thomas and Associate Professor Andrew Zacest, provided valuable feedback on the examination processes.

From 2013 the written component of the FPM examination will be held separately from the clinical examinations.

Examiners appointments
There were seven new appointments to the panel. Four examiners were reappointed to the examination panel for a further three-year period. There was one resignation from the panel. This takes the examination panel to 36 (FANZCA – 22, FRACP – two, FRACS – three, FAPA – four, FRANZCP – five, FRANZCP – three, PhD - one).

Short courses
Specialist Pain Medicine Physician Preparation Course, Geelong
Geelong Hospital held its annual pre-examination short course for all FPM trainees from March 17-18, 2012. This two-day course focused on introducing trainees to the philosophy and practice of pain medicine including topics such as how the Faculty evolved, examination structure; the governance surrounding the examination process and timetable of the exam.

Pre-Examination Short Course
The annual Pre-Examination Short Course gives intensive exposure to selected topics in pain medicine and to examination technique. The FPM Queensland Regional Committee once again convened this event in 2012 with 29 trainees in attendance. The convenors have identified further opportunities to enhance the course for 2013.

Training Unit Accreditation
In 2012, Townsville Hospital (Qld), Royal North Shore Hospital (NSW), Concord Repatriation General Hospital (NSW), Royal Children’s Hospital (Vic), Flinders Medical Centre (SA), Kowloon East Cluster Pan Pain Management Centre (Hong Kong) and St Vincent’s Hospital (NSW) were approved for continued accreditation. Following an initial review, The Gold Coast Hospital Interdisciplinary Persistent Pain Centre (Qld) was also accredited for pain medicine training.

Faculty professional document: PM2: Guidelines for Units Offering Training in Multidisciplinary Pain Medicine was revised in 2012 to include criteria for Tier 2 accreditation for units unable to satisfy all criteria set out in FPM professional documents. PM2: Guidelines for Units Offering Training in Multidisciplinary Pain Medicine, but with the capacity to train more than one successful candidate (significant in part) to a trainee. A maximum of six months training can be spent by a trainee in a Tier 2 unit. The Peter MacCallum Cancer Centre (Vic) and the Melbourne Pain Group subsequently underwent initial accreditation reviews and were approved for accreditation as Tier 2 units.

At the end of 2012, there were 29 accredited pain medicine training units in Australia, New Zealand, Hong Kong and Singapore.

Twenty-three Fellows were admitted to fellowship in 2012; 22 by training and examination, and one honorary Fellow. Although the majority of trainees continue to be anaesthetists by primary specialty, 2012 admissions included three rehabilitation physicians, one physician, one psychiatrist, one emergency medicine physician, one intensivist one primary care specialist.

Awards, prizes and honours Professor Michael Cousins, AM (NSW) was awarded an honorary doctor of science, McMaster University in Ontario Canada. Associate Professor Victor Callanan AM (Qld), was awarded the ANZCA Medal.

Continuing Education and Quality Assurance
Scientific meetings
2012 Refresher Course Day and Annual Scientific Meeting – Perth
The Faculty’s Refresher Course Day and ASM programs were a great success with more than 130 delegates and strong support from healthcare industry sponsors and exhibitors. Media coverage was widespread and the ASM e-newsletter was well received.

Dr Simon Tame, FANZCA, FFPMANZCA (NSW) was the FPM representative to the New Fellows’ Conference and Dr Ray Garrick was the board representative to this event.

Annual Spring Meeting - Cooloom
The 2012 Spring Meeting. ‘From a ripple to a wave – the rising tides in pain medicine’, convened by Associate Professor Leigh Atkinson and Associate Professor Brendan Moore, attracted more than 100 delegates. The well-received program included a launch of both the GP Online education initiative and FPM Strategic Plan 2013-2017.

Future meetings
Plans were advanced for the Faculty’s 2013/2014 meeting program.

• Dr Gary Clothier was appointed FPM scientific convenor to the 2015 ASM in Adelaide.

• Dr Jane Thomas was appointed FPM scientific convenor to the 2016 ASM in Auckland.

Continued professional development
The Faculty of Pain Medicine (FPM) policy is that Fellows must complete either the continuing professional development (CPD) program of the College of their primary fellowship or the ANZCA-CPD program. All completed CPD must be relevant to their individual scope of practice.

In 2012, the ANZCA-CPD program became available for use via mobile smart phone devices, offering participants a tailored version of the existing desktop CPD portfolio. Accessing the CPD portfolio via smart phone browser will present participants with key features of the online CPD portfolio, with the ability to check current CPD status, enter popular CPD activities and generate relevant statements and/or certificates.

Research
The FPM Research Committee continued its focus on promoting a culture of research to its Fellows and trainees. Faculty Fellows were well represented in the ANZCA Research Awards for 2012. Of the 16 successful applications, three project grants were awarded to investigations with a pain focus: Associate Professor Philip Siddall (NSW) – ‘Levels and associations of existential distress in people with persistent pain’; Dr Kelly Byrne (NZ) – ‘Tramadol vs morphine for refractory postoperative pain in the recovery room’; Dr Dr Nolan McDonnell (WA) – ‘Evaluation of the safety of intrathecal administration of magnesium sulphate in a sheep model’.

The St Jude Medical Research Award was awarded to Associate Professor Philip Siddall. The John Boyd Craig Research Award was awarded to Dr Nolan McDonnell. An academic enhancement grant was awarded to Professor Matthew Chan (HK) for ‘Transcriptional regulation of chronic postsurgical pain’.

Professional Specialty recognition of pain medicine in New Zealand
Recognition of pain medicine as a scope of practice in New Zealand by the Medical Council of New Zealand was welcome news after a lengthy application process. The new scope and its associated qualification (Fellowship of the Faculty of Pain Medicine of the Australian and New Zealand College of Anaesthetists – FPMPANZCA) came into effect on December 3. Accreditation was granted for a five-year period. This development is expected to lead to a growth of interest in the pain medicine specialty in New Zealand with consequent greater care for pain sufferers.

NSW Pain Management Plan/epPPOC
The Faculty provided successful regional representation in NSW towards the NSW Pain Management Plan. The plan has allocated $26 million of funding over four years to support the development of new pain management services in regional areas, enhance existing teaching, hospital services and support research into chronic pain.

As part of this plan, $300,000 of annual recurrent funding has been allocated to support the benchmarking of outcomes in chronic pain across NSW via the electronic Persistent Pain Outcomes Collaboration (ePPOC). A two-year pilot study will commence in NSW in 2013 with this funding. Further planning of the national benchmarking process will continue collaboratively with FPM, Australian Pain Society and New Zealand Pain Society.

Online education for Allied Health Pain Management in Primary Care
In December, the Faculty made a submission to the Bupa Health Foundation for the development of online education for allied health pain management in primary care, building on the success of the joint RACGP/FFPM initiative. A response to the submission is expected in April 2013.

Policy and government
The Faculty’s director of professional affairs and general manager continued to work closely with the ANZCA Policy Unit with respect to policy development and strategy and liaison with government and related bodies.

AMC re-accreditation
As part of the re-accreditation of the College’s training and continuing professional development programs, the Faculty provided a comprehensive submission to the Australian Medical Council (AMC) for ongoing accreditation at the end of March 2012. Following consideration of the submission, the AMC undertook consultations at the College offices and accredited training sites as well as undertaking a survey of key stakeholder groups. In December, the Faculty was advised by the AMC that its training program in pain medicine and its continuing professional development program had been granted accreditation to December 31, 2018.

Submissions
The Faculty contributed to over 20 submissions including:
• Australian Health Practitioners Regulation Agency (AH-PPA) public consultation paper on the definition of practice.
• National Prescribing Service (NPS) prescribing competencies framework project relating to competencies to prescribe medicines safely and effectively.
• Medical Board of Australia – support for funding of external doctors’ health programs.
• Health workforce Principal Committee – development of national criteria under the National Registration and Accreditation Scheme (NRAS) – April 2012.

• Pharmaceutical Benefits Scheme – a review of current listings of opioids – August 2012.
• Therapeutic Goods Administration – proposed withdrawal of products containing dextropropoxyphene (DPP) – August 2012.
• Health Workforce Australia – Health Professionals Prescribing Pathway (HPPP) Australia – May 2012.
• AMC review of the approved accreditation standards for medical schools – August 2012.
• Pharmaceutical Benefits Advisory Committee – PBS access to gabapentin – August 2012.
• Royal Australian and New Zealand College of Radiologists Accreditation – September 2012.

Pharmaceutical Benefits Advisory Committee (PBAC)

Subsequent to the Faculty’s May submission regarding PBS-subsidised opioids, we are advised of this being referred to the National Medicines Policy Committee, and that no changes were to be made to the PBS arrangements for the time being. The Faculty has indicated to the National Medicines Policy Committee its willingness to be further involved.

Increased rate of prescribing is not the only concern, but an increased mortality from prescription opioids (in times of heroin short supply) is emerging as a public health issue. Faculty representations have brought this to the attention of relevant authorities along with the development of strategies to deal with it.

A constructive dialogue with the PBAC has been established.

Opioid prescription tracking

In February 2012 the government announced the establishment of a national electronic records system to combat abuse of controlled drugs. Representations from the Faculty had been ongoing since at least 2007 in several professional and government agencies to recommend this type of real-time monitoring.

Grants

The Faculty received three new pain medicine training positions as part of the 2013 Specialist Training Program (STP) application round. This brings the total pain medicine positions being managed by the College to four. The STP unit has welcomed approaches during the year from Fellows and hospitals in the private sector and rural and regional areas seeking to expand pain medicine training capacity. The Faculty continues to benefit from the additional funding for expansion of the College’s e-learning program and teacher training for rural and regional teachers.

Pain device implant register

Discussions commenced with statisticians at the Data Management and Analysis Centre (DMAC) at the University of Adelaide to advance development of a pain device implant register with a focus on implants and their performance.

Resources Portfolio

Pain Medicine Journal

Editorial and access relationships with the American Academy of Pain Medicine remain very satisfactory, with hard-copy and online access to the journal Pain Medicine included in Fellows’ subscriptions. The Faculty’s senior editor is active in editorial board conversations and Fellows contribute to editorial sections and increasingly via published papers.

Staff

The Faculty employs four full-time administrative staff, a part-time director of professional affairs and a part-time education and training advisor and project support officer to advance the curriculum redesign project.

In May 2012, I was appointed as the honorary treasurer of the Australian and New Zealand College of Anaesthetists. Looking back over 2012 it is rewarding to see the significant contribution made by Fellows, trainees and staff in meeting the College’s objectives. The most significant investment in the future of the College over past few years was the revised training program, which was successfully implemented in 2012 for the commencement of the 2013 hospital year. I have great pleasure in presenting my first treasurer’s report and to be able to report that ANZCA achieved a sound financial position representing the College net worth of $34,033 million and no debt.

The College was budgeting to finish 2012 with an operating surplus of $778,023 and it is pleasing to see that the College achieved a greater than budget operating surplus of $1,893 million.

The overall result for the College was positively affected by the performance of the investment markets, which produced a positive return of $1,588 million (compared with a negative return of $88,887 in 2011). I will comment further on this result later in this report.

The College operated through a difficult period of economic uncertainty and budget challenges. In particular the need to address the effect of the new training program on the revenue stream and to ensure that the College continues to maintain its financial sustainability and operate effectively despite the temporary revenue turmoil, which is expected to last through 2013. As a result, training-related fees have been critically reviewed through the fees modelling and increased to fund the revised training program and increased services provided to trainees.

The budget supports the achievement of the ANZCA business plan and the ANZCA Strategic Plan 2013-2017. Key elements of the 2013 budget continue to reflect strong investment in the College’s future, consolidating on the emphasis on trainees through further training program enhancements and placing renewed focus on the fellowship, particularly through better use of technology to support an improved online experience for Fellows interacting with the College.

Statement of comprehensive income

This is a summary of the revenue, expenses and surplus from the activities of the College. In 2012 overall revenue from operating activities for the year was $26,143 million ($22,509 million in 2011). Expenses totalled $26,250 million ($22,614 million for 2011), leaving an operating surplus of $1,893 million (deficit of $105,509 in 2011).

The improved result came through revenue growth from key activity areas: subscriptions and entry fees (up $776,956), registration, training and examination fees (up $1,248 million) and additional funds for specialist training program (up $4,565 million).

This was partially offset by lower revenue from meetings and courses (down $778,523) and other income, which includes foundation sponsorship and donations, advertising in ANZCA publications, international medical graduate specialist (IMG) assessments, secretarial services and expense recoveries (down $176,686).

I wish to note that the IMGS applications have increased as compared to last year and this increase resulted in the overall reduction of the other income unfavourable variance. Expenditure growth, up from $22,614 million in 2011 to $26,250 million in 2012, largely reflected the costs of the specialist training program. This includes funding of specialist training posts salaries and rural loadings in the various hospitals, increased activity which is evident in the higher revenue outcome, and minor land and buildings impairment loss due to decline in fair value as compared to a book value.

Although in 2012 investment markets worldwide continued to display a high level of volatility, the College’s investments delivered a higher then budget return. The overall investment portfolio delivered a positive return of $1,588 million (compared with a negative $88,887 in 2011). The result was driven by unrealised capital gains of $880,662 (up from unrealised capital losses of $1,304 million in 2011) and income earnings (dividends and interest) of $706,959 (down from $1,235 million in 2011).

After taking account of the positive investment return, the College was left with a consolidated surplus of $3,481 million (compared with a deficit of $194,396 in 2011). Further positive exchange translation differences between the New Zealand and Australian dollar at balance date and recognition of the College’s gifted artwork and decorative arts at fair value allowed for the total comprehensive income for the year to finish at a positive $3,795 million (compared with a negative $190,598 in 2011).

Statement of financial position

This is a summary of the assets, liabilities and equity position of the College. Over the year, the net assets of the College increased in line with the surplus to $24,033 million (compared with $20,238 million at the end of 2011). This net asset position reflects that the College is financially strong, secure and well positioned to endure any future economic conditions.

Statement of cash flows

Despite additional payments for the capital projects such as the training program and enhanced technology projects, the College’s cash position at the end of the reporting period is similar to the last year cash position.

The College was budgeting to finish 2012 with an operating surplus of $778,023 and it is pleasing to see that the College achieved a greater than budget operating surplus of $1,893 million.

Statement of comprehensive income

Operating activities for the year resulted in a surplus of $1,893,339 compared to a deficit of $105,509 in the prior year.

Combined with positive earnings on investments of $1,587,521 (compared to negative earnings in 2011 of $88,887) this produced an overall surplus for the year of $3,480,860 compared to a net deficit of $194,396 in 2011.

This was increased by favourable exchange translation differences arising from converting the value of assets, liabilities and current year retained earnings from New Zealand dollars to Australian dollars of $22,915 (2011: favourable $3,798) and the recognition of cultural assets (artworks and decorative art) of $291,157, giving a total comprehensive income surplus for the year of $3,794,932 (2011: deficit $180,698).

Total operating revenue increased by 25% to $28,143,487 whilst operating expenditure rose by 16% to $26,250,148.

The increase in both revenue and expenditure is predominantly related to the additional funding of the specialist training program that was awarded to the College by the Australian Department of Health and Ageing in 2012.

Statement of financial position

Total assets increased by 16% to $38,836,866.

The major contributors to this were the increase in current assets reflecting a higher level of prepayments and subscription debitors and the increase in non-current assets reflecting a higher fair value of investments and a higher level of intangible assets resulted from investing in the revised training program and overall College infrastructure and technology.

Total liabilities increased by 12% to $24,032,940.

The result of this is that net assets increased by almost 19% to $24,032,940 compared to $20,238,008 last year.

Statement of changes in equity

Total equity for the year increased by almost 19% to $24,032,940.

The increase in both equity and retained earnings is predominantly related to the additional funding of the specialist training program that was awarded to the College by the Australian Department of Health and Ageing in 2012.

Statement of cash flows

Cash flow for the year marginally decreased by $33,602 (2011: increased by $194,396) in 2011.

This arose from the net effect of the overall surplus of $3,480,860, a gain on exchange translation differences of the New Zealand assets and liabilities of $22,915 and the recognition of cultural assets of $291,157.

Combined with positive earnings on investments of $1,587,521 (compared to negative earnings in 2011 of $88,887) this produced an overall surplus for the year of $3,480,860 compared to a net deficit of $194,396 in 2011.

This was increased by favourable exchange translation differences arising from converting the value of assets, liabilities and current year retained earnings from New Zealand dollars to Australian dollars of $22,915 (2011: favourable $3,798) and the recognition of cultural assets (artworks and decorative art) of $291,157, giving a total comprehensive income surplus for the year of $3,794,932 (2011: deficit $180,698).

Total operating revenue increased by 25% to $28,143,487 whilst operating expenditure rose by 16% to $26,250,148.

The increase in both revenue and expenditure is predominantly related to the additional funding of the specialist training program that was awarded to the College by the Australian Department of Health and Ageing in 2012.
