2022 Emerging Fellows Conference (ELC) Guidelines

The Emerging Leaders Conference (ELC) is organised by the ELC convenor/s with assistance from the ANZCA events team and Director of Professional Affairs (DPA) Annual Scientific Meeting (ASM) on behalf of the college.

INTRODUCTION

The ELC is a three day meeting with the purpose of facilitating the development of leadership capabilities in those new fellows identified as being significant future contributors to our profession and the college.

Special emphasis is placed on fostering current and future leaders in anaesthesia and pain medicine, to encourage new fellow engagement, and to strengthen relationships between new fellows from different regions.

The college is committed to equal opportunity and encourages applications from a broad diversity of new fellows. This includes, gender, race, ethnicity and geography. To learn more about the Gender Equity Sub-committee, please visit the gender equity page.

The ELC is considered more a "think tank" rather than a series of presentations for digestion. The subject matter for the conference should usually be a broad but single theme, and should allow wide-ranging relevant debate and discussion on not only clinical implications but also administrative and political issues as they affect our specialties.

To be nominated as a delegate at the ELC is an honour and should provide encouragement for the new fellow to participate further in the wider affairs of the specialty. Fellows participating in the ELC must also attend the ANZCA Annual Scientific Meeting (ASM) for a minimum of two days, which is held in the same region following completion of the ELC.

As the conference has a full day and evening program it is not suitable for delegates to be accompanied by partners or children. The program is immersive and delegates are required to attend all sessions and both dinners, session will run from 8.30am-5.30pm and generally breakfast is eaten together as a group.

Exception is given if a parent is breast feeding. In this situation, their support person and infant are entitled to stay onsite at the accommodation. Delegates should be made aware that career disruption is taken into account and thus, they won't be disadvantaged if on maternity or paternity leave and wish to postpone their attendance until a future meeting.

APPOINTMENT OF REGIONAL & NATIONAL DELEGATES TO THE ELC

Eligibility

Fellows who have been granted their fellowship of the college or the Faculty of Pain Medicine (FPM) within the previous *five years are eligible to apply as an ELC delegate. It is a requirement that applicants must also attend the ASM if selected to attend the ELC. The successful applicants must register to attend the ASM by close of early-bird. Should the successful applicants not register by close of early-bird for the ASM, the ASM and EPC will review the applicant's eligibility and revoke the application allowing another representative from their region to attend. Trainees waiting to receive their fellowship are not eligible for nomination, unless under exceptional circumstances.

taking into account career disruption*

Application and selection

The criteria selection application form, curriculum vitae, and the names of two referees, are to be submitted to the conference secretariat by the closing date as stipulated in conference website. After the closing date the conference secretariat will distribute the nominations received to the relevant regional/national committee of ANZCA and FPM board. Once the committees and FPM board have nominated their delegate(s), their details must be forwarded to the conference secretariat who will forward on to ASM and EPC for ratification. This will occur via an electronic vote in December. Applicants and the regional/national coordinator will be notified of their acceptance in December to allow sufficient time to plan leave, family commitments and registration for the ASM by close of early-bird.

Criteria for selection are the following:

1. Applicants must be within *five years of receiving ANZCA or FPM fellowship
2. Demonstrated evidence of commitment to ANZCA or FPM affairs
3. Demonstration of education and teaching in anaesthesia or pain medicine eg. Supervisory roles
4. Interest in leadership roles in anaesthesia or pain medicine

* Taking into account career disruption.

*The college understands career disruption may be for a variety of reasons, such as parental leave, illness, or time taken to care for a dependent. In support of our member's ongoing learning, education and participation in this conference, time taken for any of these reasons is not included in the five year requirement. Should the delegate wish to discuss their application or circumstances they are encouraged to contact the conference secretariat.

Requirements for attendance:

1. Commitment to attend the entire ELC
2. Commitment to attend the ASM at the completion of the ELC (for a minimum of two days, registered prior to the close of early bird)
3. Participation in at least one ANZCA or FPM activity, event, committee, working group or initiative
4. Attendance at a regional/national committee or board meeting after the conference to provide a report

When selecting nominees, regional committees and FPM board are requested to take into consideration gender equity and diversity in candidates. Thus, if the region has two places on offer, where possible, a male and female nominee should be chosen. In addition, if a candidate is at the end of their five years since receiving fellowship, preference should be given to this candidate over another who has five years remaining to attend the ELC.

The college strives to ensure that all groups within our anaesthetic and pain medicine community – some of which are often under-represented – are supported and engaged to participate in our conference. Attendees should be selected to reflect the broad diversity of our medical community. We aim for representative inclusiveness across gender, ethnicity and geography to achieve both quality and equity. It is recommended committees review previous attendee records to ensure balance.*

Special consideration for 2022 applications

Due to COVID-19 the 2020 ELC was unable to go ahead in Perth. The 2020 delegates selected will be given first preference to attend the 2021 ELC. They will not need to apply again through the application process. If a delegate is unable to attend, they will be able to apply for special consideration to attend in 2022. This will be reviewed on a case-by-case basis with approval from the Director Professional Affairs, ASMs. Fellows who were in their last year of eligibility to apply to attend in 2021 are invited to apply to attend the 2022 ELC.

FPM New Zealand delegates

In 2022, the faculty can nominate up to two delegates from New Zealand to attend due to no FPM delegates from New Zealand being able to attend in 2021.

NUMBER OF DELEGATES

Generally, two anaesthetic delegates are selected from each larger region, with one from Tasmania and ACT.

The recipient of the ANZCA International Scholarship is also expected to attend. The Indigenous Health Committee will nominate one new fellow to attend, in the case there are eligible candidates from both from Australia and New Zealand, both candidates should be accepted where appropriate. The FPM is represented by three delegates (two Australian and one New Zealand). The host region may invite four representatives to participate. This may subtotal 22 delegates (23 delegates for 2022).
