HEALTHCARE INDUSTRY PROSPECTUS

It's our pleasure to invite you to the Wellbeing, Communication, Medical Education, and Leadership and Management Special Interest Groups (SIGs) at this year's Combined SIG meeting in tropical Cairns.

This year's meeting is convened by the Wellbeing SIG. The theme is "Show up, be seen; Courageous conversations in Cairns". We're looking forward to robust conversations about the issues facing our workforce today, as well as challenging ourselves to create solutions together.

We're joined by some of our profession's thought leaders to explore themes such as:

- Burnout.
- Complexity in culture change.
- Gender equity.
- Clinical leadership.

The program will include plenary lectures, panel discussions and a variety of workshops. These will focus on the non-technical skills fundamental to practice, including mental health first aid, coaching skills, peer support, hypnotic communication skills and managing acute severe behavioural disturbance.

OUR INVITED SPEAKERS INCLUDE:

Associate Professor Rhea Liang – General and breast surgeon and immediate past chair of the Operating with Respect Education Committee of the Royal Australasian College of Surgeons. Associate Professor Liang researches, advocates and consults widely in diversity and equity issues.

Associate Professor Jane Munro – Senior medical adviser of the COVID-19 response division in the Victorian Department of Health and paediatric rheumatologist. Associate Professor Munro co-founded the Pandemic Kindness Movement during COVID and is passionate about improving healthcare worker wellbeing.

Dr Bethan Richards – Australia's first chief medical wellness officer, director of the Sydney Local Health District WellMD Centre, and head of department of rheumatology at the Royal Prince Alfred Hospital in New South Wales. Dr Richards has extensive experience and a passion for developing mentoring, teaching and medical wellbeing programs.

Ms Fiona Fitzgerald – Workforce wellbeing program lead at Beamtree and Health Roundtable. An experienced registered nurse, Fiona has introduced and led the implementation of the wellbeing index across a growing number of Australian and New Zealand healthcare organisations as part of her work for the Health Roundtable.

Crystalbrook Riley is a beautiful state-of-the-art venue, and Cairns is the ideal laidback location to network with colleagues and participate in some thought-provoking and stimulating education.

We look forward to seeing you in Cairns.
